VACANCY ON MAIN ST. — Approximately 15 vacant store rooms in Circleville has prompted the local Parking Lot Corporation to give some close views to the business situation here. The group has voiced the opinion that more parking facilities are in immediate need. An open meeting on the situation is scheduled Tuesday.

The Circleville Parking Lot Corporation, taking a close look at the business situation in the city, has come up with a few pertinent comments and suggestions.

In letters directed to downtown property owners, the Parking Lot Board of Directors asked two questions. They were: What are you doing to protect the rentability of your property to give a fair return on your investment? If your property became vacant, do you think you could rent it again within a reasonable time at your present income?

The letter, and current concern, stems mainly from an unfavorable business outlook in Circleville. The directors pointed out that there are now 15 vacant store rooms in the city. The majority of them are on East and West Main St. Providing adequate off-street parking was a priority recommendation by officers and directors of the board. Spokesmen labeled decent parking facilities as a profitable investment and a valuable service to the community.

AWARE that the present off-street parking lot between E. Main and Franklin Sts. is being used to capacity, the local group declared it is now necessary to keep abreast with present trends—the urgent need for more parking space.

The letter pointed out that the business function of the city faces an alternative—either provide more parking space for customers or continue to lose business to shopping centers and to other cities with adequate parking facilities.

Kennedy Books California Chat With Gen. Ike

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP)—President Kennedy made his own rules of protocol today and scheduled a short journey from his weekend desert retreat to call on former President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Kennedy, who wound up the formal part of his California visit Friday with a firm expression of confidence in the future of freedom and a personal look at an Atlas rocket firing, planned to see his predecessor on what was labeled a courtesy call.

The President is staying at the desert home of sister Bing Crosby, about 20 miles from this Southern California resort. Eisenhower is a few miles from him, in a cottage at the Eldorado Country Club.

Kennedy was understood to feel he should call on Eisenhower, rather than vice versa, since he is a transient in these parts and Eisenhower has made it his winter residence.

The President demonstrated his support of some of the headiest nuclear research conducted in this country when he visited the Lawrence Radiation Laboratory at the University of California.

He stopped there before addressing a record crowd at Charter Day ceremonies in the football stadium on the university's Berkeley campus. An estimated 88,000 filled the stadium seats and spread over the field—the biggest attendance yet for an on-the-spot Kennedy speech audience, and tops for the stadium, where many a big game has been played.

The possibility of cooperation with the Soviets in outer space is encouraging, Kennedy told the throng—which gave him roaring, whistling ovations.

Knowledge is the passkey to the future, he said, with learning as an eternal goal. He declared, "No one can doubt that cooperation in the pursuit of knowledge must lead to freedom of the mind and of the soul."

Americans can take new confidence in the direction history is moving the world, Kennedy said. And he charted the direction in these words: "No one who examines the modern world can doubt that the great currents of history are carrying the world away from the monolithic idea toward the pluralist idea—away from communism and toward national independence and freedom."

Americans also must shun the idea that their country's mission "is to remake the world in the American image," he said. His point was that U.S. policies should aim at helping newly developing nations travel the road to "genuine national independence."

"Diversity and independence, far from being opposed to the American conception of the world order, represent the very essence of our view of the future of the world," Kennedy said.

From Berkeley, the President flew to Vandenberg Air Force Base, which identifies itself as "the free world's military missile center." From a bluff 1,000 yards from the launching site, he became the first chief executive to witness the firing of an intercontinental ballistic missile.

An Atlas D rocket, the kind that boosted astronaut John H. Glenn Jr. into space, sizzled flame and thundered off its pad in a high arc over the Pacific. Gen. Thomas S. Power, commander of the Strategic Air Command, reported to Kennedy after a tour of other missile complexes on the base that the Atlas missed its bullseye off Eniwetok by only eight-tenths of a mile. The flight of about 5,000 miles lasted only 26 minutes.

2 Ohioans Are Killed In Virginia Family Fuss
CLINTWOOD, Va. (AP)—Two Ohio men were shot and killed near here Friday as the climax of a family argument in the home where they had been visiting.

Police said Sam Cussins, about 60, and Charles Bishop Jr., 31, both of Wellston, Ohio, were slain by blasts from a 16-gauge shotgun at the home of Troy Albert Phillips, 29, Cussins' son-in-law.

Phillips, whose home is about eight miles from here, was jailed at Clintwood. No charge has been filed.

board of review, said federal officials demanded last August that Ohio make 10 changes in its rules governing appeals. He said he bowed to the ultimatum under threat of having federal funds stopped.

A taxpayer's suit then challenged six of the changes and two of them were declared in violation of Ohio law.

On March 9 federal officials told the board to make the changes despite the court's decision. The board protested and efforts were begun in Washington to make revisions that would do away with all objections.

Krabach said changes to a rule permitting appellants to challenge board members at hearings have been agreed upon. He said he has gotten no word, however, on changes to the rule allowing another hearing for applicants having good cause for failing to appear for the first time.

Federal officials previously set a deadline of March 31 for compliance or loss of funds. Federal law says the secretary of labor must certify that a state is complying with federal regulations before it can receive federal operating funds.

French Throw Steel Ring Around Algiers Terrorists

Smaller Nations Deplore Stalemate

GENEVA (AP)—Small nations at the Geneva disarmament conference today clung to the hope of breaking the nuclear deadlock between the Soviet Union and the Western powers to head off a new atomic weapons race.

Having watched on the sidelines while the big powers argued themselves into a stalemate, the smaller nations plan to take an active role beginning Monday in negotiations for a test-ban treaty.

For the moment, their pressure seems to be directed primarily against the Soviet Union and its refusal to agree to an international inspection system to police the ban against cheating. Every indication at present is that the Soviets do not intend even to consider reversing their policy.

Should the Soviets switch on this point, however, and active treaty negotiations begin, the United States would then be under heavy pressure not to resume atmospheric testing late next month even though a treaty might not be signed by that time.

The concern of the small countries came into sharp focus here Friday after the United States, Britain and Russia reported to the 17-nation conference their failure to make any headway toward a treaty.

Howard Green, Canadian external affairs minister, proposed that the nuclear subcommittee of the conference, limited until now to the big powers, meet again Monday and invite other members of the conference to take part. Nigerian Foreign Minister Jojo Wachuku said they should not merely be invited but rather added to the committee as full members.

The proposal found general support and the conference put up to U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko, as permanent co-chairmen, the task of working out details. The effect of the action and the discussion was to give the nuclear committee a new, though perhaps fruitless, lease on life.

Both the United States and Russia, meanwhile, were trying to explain the reasons for the failure. Gromyko and his aides harped on the argument that the Western powers wanted international inspection in order to put spies into the Soviet Union.

Rusk and Britain's Lord Home argued the system could be operated to prevent any espionage. Rusk charged the Russians wanted to do some more testing themselves. Gromyko denounced this accusation as a pretext for renewal of American testing.

The need for inspection found support among the smaller nations. Among them was Brazil's foreign minister, Francisco de S. Tiago Dantas.

Dixiecrats Hit Poll Tax Ban
Talkathon Produces Rare Saturday Session

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Southern talkathon against an anti-poll tax measure today sent the Senate into its first Saturday session of the year.

Mike Mansfield of Montana, the Senate Democratic Leader set a 9 a.m. starting time, the fourth straight day the Senate has been called in three hours earlier than usual.

Mansfield told reporters he hoped to get three or four more Southern speeches out of the way by calling the Saturday session.

The Dixie contingent appeared to be full of pep and ready to keep its oratorical barrage going for some time.

The Southerners were not yet ready to say when they would permit an initial vote in the fight for Senate passage of a proposed constitutional amendment to bar the poll tax as a voting prerequisite in federal elections.

Mansfield continued to hold out hope for a vote Tuesday. But he noted that some of the Southerners most strongly opposed to the amendment still had not used their second speeches.

Under Senate rules, each senator may speak only twice on a pending question. All Southerners believed ready to join in the poll tax fight now have made one speech, and some have made two.

Three Southerners — Sens. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., and John J. Sparkman, D-Ala. — combined to tie up proceedings during Friday's 10½-hour session.

McClellan said revenue from the 1½ Arkansas poll tax was used for school purposes and he considered his receipt for the levy "a badge of honor."

Ervin noted that his state abolished the poll tax 40 years ago. But he declared that the levy now was being "seized on to make a whipping boy out of five states, which happen to be Southern states, by organizations that enjoy or find it politically advantageous to cuss out the South."

Sparkman said the tax also has produced important revenue for education in his state. He said it was not used to try to disfranchise Alabama Negroes.

European Settlers Dig In for Possible Last Defiant Stand

ALGIERS (AP)—French troops, showing loyalty to President Charles de Gaulle, threw a ring of steel around a European terrorist stronghold today after savage fighting that threatened civil war over Algeria's move toward independence.

Army helicopters dropped flares throughout the night over the tense quarter of Bab-el-Oued. French tanks stood ready for new outbreaks as defiant European settlers dug in for what may be their last major stand against independence for France's North African territory.

At least 15 French soldiers were killed and 74 wounded after five hours of street fighting in which French warplanes and heavy weapons were brought into action under De Gaulle's direct orders to smash the insurrection pitilessly.

Three settlers were known to have been killed and 74 wounded. Unofficial reports said several hundred more were wounded were waiting to be evacuated.

Rumors of preparations for a general uprising swept the city. "We have nothing to lose now. We may just as well go down fighting," one European said.

Stunned European settlers realized for the first time that the army was ready to shoot at them. Many had been confident that French troops would never fire on Frenchmen.

Glenn Misses New Issue of 'Who's Who'

NEW YORK (AP)—There are 8,800 new listings in the latest "Who's Who in America"—among them Alan B. Shepard Jr. and Virgil I. Grissom, but not John H. Glenn Jr.

Glenn, the first American to orbit the earth, just didn't make his flight before the biennial edition of the roster of famous or important Americans went to press.

Among those who did become prominent in time for the new edition were 19-year-old actor Brandon DeWilde, the youngest person in the book; a 33-year-old governor, F. Rav Kever Jr. of Vermont; a 28-year-old corporation president, William Wrigley of the chewing gum firm, and a 32-year-old housewife, Jacqueline Lea Bouvier Kennedy.

The First Lady's listing is brief—only 11 lines. But then her husband took only 18 lines—just a little better than the space allotted to the man he defeated for the presidency, Richard Milhous Nixon—15 lines—and nowhere near the space allotted to the man he defeated for the democratic nomination, Adlai Ewing Stevenson—34 lines.

But they are all made to look like pikers in the fine print by a gentleman who designs geodesic domes, Richard Buckminster Fuller. His biography from his start as an apprentice steam fitter occupies 97 lines.

Automen Praise, Chide House Panel
DETROIT (AP) — The Automobile Manufacturers Association says the House Appropriations Committee took a step in the right direction when it added $1 million to the Public Health Service budget for research into the automobile's contribution to smog and a cure for it.

But, at the same time, the association said Friday that the committee had unjustly criticized the automotive industry's private research and developments in the control field.

The group also pointed out that with 1963 models all American cars will come equipped with positive crankcase ventilating systems that recirculate unburned fuel through the engine, rather than vent them directly into the atmosphere.

Argentine Navy Commanders To Demand Frondizi Resign

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP)—Top commanders of the Argentine navy were reported planning to call on President Arturo Frondizi today and demand he resign. The report could not be confirmed.

It came as Gen. Pedro Aramburu, a hero of the revolt that ousted dictator Juan D. Peron and a staunch supporter of constitutional government, apparently failed in his first efforts to mediate Frondizi's latest crisis with his restless military chiefs.

Reliable sources said navy officers planned to see Frondizi and affirm their position that he quit. A leading newspaper, La Prensa, published a similar report of navy intentions.

Neither account said whether the navy had the support of the other armed forces. Navy officer dissidents were reported earlier this week to have collected their army and air force colleagues a blueprint for a three-man junta to take over the country.

Frondizi appealed to Aramburu to step in as peacemaker after military support of his shaky regime began waning in the wake of sweeping Peronist victories in National Assembly and provincial elections last Sunday.

The military ousted Peron in 1955 and is violently opposed to his return. But it is apparently split on how far it should go to prevent a Peron resurgence, whether to seek a constitutional solution or to seize the government.

Frondizi appeared to have made peace with the military earlier this week when he agreed to form a new coalition government with a half-civilian, half-military cabinet and to nullify the Peronist victories. But Frondizi has had small success in getting other anti-Peron parties to join his government.

Frondizi named four new ministers Friday night, two from his own Intransigent Radical party and two from the small Christian Democratic party. But the Major anti-Peron opposition, the Popular Radicals, thus far have adamantly rejected Frondizi's overtures.

Aramburu, provisional president in the post-Peron regime, huddled into the early morning hours with the three armed service secretaries and their top military commanders.

Upon emerging shortly before 4 a.m., Aramburu told reporters that all problems "have a solution when there is good will." He did not elaborate, but scheduled a radio-television report to the nation tonight on the crisis he warned may drag on another week to 10 days.

Propaganda Expected in Castro Speech

WASHINGTON (AP) — Another of Fidel Castro's propaganda spectacles will begin Thursday—the trial of more than 1,000 rebels captured in the Cuban invasion.

"Don't be surprised at anything that comes out of these trials," said a U.S. propaganda expert. "You can bet they will be stage-managed for every possible ounce of propaganda value. Prisoners will be denouncing the United States, Cuban exiles and, perhaps, even their own mothers."

The invasion itself was one of the strangest military episodes in Western Hemisphere history—the attempt of more than 1,500 Cubans to storm their homeland and overthrow Castro's regime.

The invasion failed. Cuban exiles say the invading forces never had a chance because the United States at the last minute withheld air support from the operation. Scores were killed and 1,183 prisoners taken.

It is the trial of these men that the Cuban propaganda radio has announced is scheduled to start Thursday.

Cuban exile leaders in this country appealed Friday night to Castro to postpone the trials at least until April 15. In a cable they said a suggestion made by Castro himself for the exchange of the prisoners for $21-million worth of tractors appeared ready to crystallize.

Veteran Licking County Sheriff Dies at Age 61

NEWARK, Ohio (AP)—William McElroy, Licking County sheriff for 21 years, suffered an apparent heart attack at the county jail Friday and died. The widely known law officer was 61.

McElroy joined the sheriff's department in 1930. In 1939, he was elected sheriff. He served continuously except for a two-year break 1947-49, when he served as executive secretary of the Buckeye Sheriffs' Association.

Argentine Navy Commanders To Demand Frondizi Resign

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP)—Top commanders of the Argentine navy were reported planning to call on President Arturo Frondizi today and demand he resign. The report could not be confirmed.

It came as Gen. Pedro Aramburu, a hero of the revolt that ousted dictator Juan D. Peron and a staunch supporter of constitutional government, apparently failed in his first efforts to mediate Frondizi's latest crisis with his restless military chiefs.

Reliable sources said navy officers planned to see Frondizi and affirm their position that he quit. A leading newspaper, La Prensa, published a similar report of navy intentions.

Neither account said whether the navy had the support of the other armed forces. Navy officer dissidents were reported earlier this week to have presented their army and air force colleagues a blueprint for a three-man junta to take over the country.

Frondizi appealed to Aramburu to step in as peacemaker after military support of his shaky regime began waning in the wake of sweeping Peronist victories in National Assembly and provincial elections last Sunday.

The military ousted Peron in 1955 and is violently opposed to his return. But it is apparently split on how far it should go to prevent a Peron resurgence, whether to seek a constitutional solution or to seize the government.

Automen Praise, Chide House Panel

DETROIT (AP) — The Automobile Manufacturers Association says the House Appropriations Committee took a step in the right direction when it added $1 million to the Public Health Service budget for research into the automobile's contribution to smog and a cure for it.

But, at the same time, the association said Friday that the committee had unjustly criticized the automotive industry's private research and developments in the control field.

The group also pointed out that with 1963 models all American cars will come equipped with positive crankcase ventilating systems that recirculate unburned fuel through the engine, rather than vent them directly into the atmosphere.

peace with the military earlier this week when he agreed to form a new coalition government with a half-civilian, half-military cabinet and to nullify the Peronist victories. But Frondizi has had small success in getting other anti-Peron parties to join his government.

Frondizi named four new ministers Friday night, two from his own Intransigent Radical party and two from the small Christian Democratic party. But the Major anti-Peron opposition, the Popular Radicals, thus far have adamantly rejected Frondizi's overtures.

Aramburu, provisional president in the post-Peron regime, huddled into the early morning hours with the three armed service secretaries and their top military commanders.

Upon emerging shortly before 4 a.m., Aramburu told reporters that all problems "have a solution when there is good will." He did not elaborate, but scheduled a radio-television report to the nation tonight on the crisis he warned may drag on another week to 10 days.

Propaganda Expected in Castro Speech

WASHINGTON (AP) — Another of Fidel Castro's propaganda spectacles will begin Thursday—the trial of more than 1,000 rebels captured in the Cuban invasion.

"Don't be surprised at anything that comes out of these trials," said a U.S. propaganda expert. "You can bet they will be stage-managed for every possible ounce of propaganda value. Prisoners will be denouncing the United States, Cuban exiles and, perhaps, even their own mothers."

The invasion itself was one of the strangest military episodes in Western Hemisphere history—the attempt of more than 1,500 Cubans to storm their homeland and overthrow Castro's regime.

The invasion failed. Cuban exiles say the invading forces never had a chance because the United States at the last minute withheld air support from the operation. Scores were killed and 1,183 prisoners taken.

It is the trial of these men that the Cuban propaganda radio has announced is scheduled to start Thursday.

Cuban exile leaders in this country appealed Friday night to Castro to postpone the trials at least until April 15. In a cable they said a suggestion made by Castro himself for the exchange of the prisoners for $21-million worth of tractors appeared ready to crystallize.

Red China Repeats Warning Against U.S. Aid in Viet Nam

TOKYO (AP) — Red China charged today that stepped up American military aid to South Viet Nam was a grave threat to peace in Southeast Asia and warned "no peace-loving country can remain indifferent."

Peiping's latest attack accused the United States of turning South Viet Nam into a living hell by "slaughtering patriots fighting for independence and freedom."

Leaf-Stripping In Viet Nam Proves Flop

WASHINGTON (AP) — A U.S. experiment in using chemicals to strip the leaves from jungle trees in South Viet Nam providing cover for Communist guerrillas has flopped so far, it was learned today.

The defoliation experiment has not been abandoned yet. Another try is expected when the rainy season starts, about early May.

But officials are not hopeful. Comments from informed authorities range from outright dismissal of the experiment as a farce to a concession that it had turned out "not so good so far."

Heavy jungles covering much of South Viet Nam have shielded Communist guerrillas from aerial observation and permitted them to move about freely.

Sponsors of the defoliation experiment, the Defense Department's Advanced Research Project Agency, had hoped it would provide a way to deny cover to the guerrillas by killing the jungle foliage over wide areas.

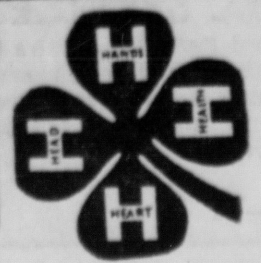

For the past several months, U.S. planes have been dropping various chemicals on trees along a 15-mile segment of a highway running out of Saigon.

Officials had hoped to keep the work secret but word got out in Viet Nam.

4-H Club News

By EDWIN D. TAYLOR
County Extension Agent, 4-H

Organization date for the 4-H electric clubs in Pickaway County are March 26 for the Circleville electric club and March 28 for the Pickaway Livewires.

Any boy in Pickaway County is welcome to join one of the county wide electric clubs. In the 4-H electric projects members learn by doing and then enjoy their results.

Electric clubs have at least 8 members each year. Members learn to conduct club business, have recreation and study electricity.

Some of the things learned will include what electricity is and how it operates, finding electrical troubles at home, making use of a test lamp, constructing handy electric devices for use around your home or farm and how to hunt for electrical hazards.

All interested boys in and around Circleville are invited to attend the Circleville Electric clubs organization meeting 7:30 p. m. Monday, at the South Central REA 159 E. Franklin St. The electric clubs are conducted by Marion Mowery.

All boys in the southern and eastern part of the county are invited to attend the Pickaway Livewires organization meeting 8 p. m. Wednesday at Pickaway Twp. School. The Pickaway Club is conducted by Lawrence McKenzie and his sons.

Darby Fine and Dandy

By Barbara Vance

The program for the coming year was planned and discussed at the second meeting of the Darby Fine and Dandy 4-H club. This meeting was held March 19 at the Darby Twp. High School.

It was decided that the club would have the various swine, beef, sheep and dairy meetings at the members homes during the summer. The new constitution and by-laws were read and approved.

Advisers talked over the requirements of being a 4-H member. Also the club discussed the honor club system and how they might strive to become an honor club.

The next session will be the safety meeting with safety leader David Garrett in charge. It will be April 2 in Darby Twp. School at 7:30 p. m. All members are to answer the roll with a safety slogan.

Buttons and Bowls

By Diane Burton

At the March 7 meeting the Washington Twp. Buttons and Bowls 4-H club elected their officers for the coming year. They are: Linda Trimmer, president; Beverly McKenzie, vice president; Carol Spangler, secretary; Orville Grady, treasurer; Cheryl Burton, recreation leader; Diane Burton, news reporter; Debbie Stauffer, health leader; Linda Burton, safety leader; and Sandra Frazier, song leader.

Projects for the coming year were discussed.

On March 14 the officers held a meeting at the home of Diane, Linda and Cheryl Burton to plan the program for the coming year.

The next meeting will be in the home of Weta Mae Leist at 7:30 p. m. March 21.

Perry Twp. Future Homemakers

By Linda Wisecup

The first meeting of the Perry Twp. Future Homemakers was held March 16. Officers for the coming year were elected. They are:

Sue Remy — president; Janet Tarbill — vice president; Janet Gerhardt — secretary; Donna Kempton — treasurer; Linda Wisecup — news reporter; recreation leaders — Becky Morris, Gloria Gerhardt, and Linda Patterson.

The advisers are Mrs. Donald Kempton and Mrs. Orin Wisecup. There are 15 members in the club.

It was decided for each member to pay $1 for dues.

The next meeting will be April 3.

Town and Country Stitches

By Jessica Peart

The first meeting of the Town and Country Stitches was called to order by the advisers, Mrs. Jesse Peart and Mrs. Howard Lemaster, in the home of Brenda Lemaster on March 13.

Officers for the year are: Brenda Lemaster, president and Jessica Peart, vice president; Mary Ward — secretary and news reporter; Virginia Pullen treasurer, health and safety leader; Vivian Lanman, recreation leader.

It was then decided to take money from the treasury to pay for vanilla the club will be selling. Project books were passed out.

Refreshments were served by Jessica Peart and Brenda Lemaster. The next meeting will be at the home of Sharon Mace on March 27.

Jr. Leaders for the year are Jessica Peart and Brenda Lemaster.

Salt Creek Sew and Serve

By Elaine Judy

The ninth meeting of the club was held March 14, after school. The business meeting was not too long. After the meeting the girls worked on a community project.

Our next meeting will be March 28 after school. At this meeting Elaine Judy will have devotions.

Cloverleaf Pony Club

By Beverly Lane

The fifth meeting of the Cloverleaf Pony Club was called to order by the president. Pledges were made by the vice president.

Questions regarding projects were asked. The club will be selling tickets for the dedication banquet for the 4-H and Grange Building at the fairgrounds.

The next meeting will be Monday.

Future Farmers of Monroe

By Joyce Long

The Future Farmers of Monroe 4-H club held its second meeting Wednesday March 14, at the school house.

The meeting was called to order by president Jim Shell and the 4-H pledge was led by Gary Neff. Roll call was answered by each member naming his project.

The constitution was read and the date for the election of officers was changed from March to February due to the change of the fair dates. All meetings will be held in the school house instead of the members homes.

The next meeting will be 8 p. m. March 28.

An officers meeting was held at the home of president Jim Shell on Monday, March 5. At this meeting health, recreation, and safety leaders were appointed. They are: Gary Neff and Cathy Redman, health leader; Ann Seibel, Ginger Hosler, Tommy Hamilton and Ernie Lindsey, recreation leaders; Barbara Tallman and Timmy Hamilton, safety leaders.

Washington Hill Climbers

By Connie Kempton

The Washington Hill Climbers 4-H club meeting was March 15, at the home of Nelson Stevens.

New officers elected for the year are: Fred Crist, president; Mike Moorehead, vice president; Larry Downs, secretary; Jimmy Lands, treasurer; Jimmy Moorehead, recreation leader; Bobby Lands, health and safety leader; and Connie Kempton, news reporter.

Projects for this year were discussed during the meeting.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Nelson Stevens. The next meeting will be held at the home of Connie Kempton.

Walnut Wonder Workers

By Roe Riegel

The Walnut Wonder Workers held their organizational meeting March 15 at the Walnut Twp. School.

Officers elected for this year are: William Diehl — president; Douglas Dunkle — vice president; Gary Thomas — secretary; Janet Schneider — treasurer; Roe Riegel — Circleville news reporter; Nancy Hines — Ashville news reporter; Norma Noecker — health representative; Alan Peters — recreation leader; and Ray Noecker — safety leader.

Presentations and awards were given for last year's work. Several new members joined and our leaders are Jay Hay and Roger Schneider. Recreation followed adjournment of the meeting.

The next meeting will be announced later.

Jackson Livestock

By Linda Minor

The second meeting of the Jackson Livestock 4-H club was opened by the 4-H pledge led by Eddie Boyer. The pledge to the flag was led by Gary Thompson.

Roll call showed we had a total of 23 members and all were present. Each of the new members introduced himself and told what his project would be.

The main topic of the business meeting was the discussion of projects. After the meeting was adjourned recreation was held in the school gym.

The next meeting will be 8 p. m. March 27 at the school.

Merry Mixers

By Mona Davis

The second meeting of the Merry Mixers 4-H club was held March 12 in the Circleville High School with 12 members present.

The vice president brought the meeting to order and the 4-H and American pledges were given.

The constitution was read and it was decided to keep it as it was. The application slips were handed in to Mrs. Bartholomew.

Mrs. Bartholomew explained how the club receives points to make a honor club. The club is to sell tickets for the dedication banquet for the new 4-H building.

Mrs. Bartholomew also passed out pamphlets to the girls entitled "How to Master the Art of Making Cookies." The meeting was then adjourned.

A card was passed for the girls to sign to send to Mrs. Westenhaver. Jeanne Bartholomew gave a demonstration on how to mend holes. Mary Lou Skaggs directed recreation.

Stir and Chatter

By Lorna Poling

The Stir and Chatter 4-H club made favors March 10, at the home of the adviser, Mrs. Sterling Poling. The favors are for the dedication of the 4-H and Grange Building.

The adviser checked the members' tea towels and aprons. The club will have a bake sale at Barnhills on April 28, from 9 a. m. to noon.

The next meeting will be 3:30

Feed Grain Registration Reported Slow

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department may give feed grain growers additional time this spring to agree to retire corn and sorghum grain land under a surplus reduction program. So far, registration has been slow.

The registration period is to close March 31, but department field officials and some farm groups are urging a time extension. They say adverse weather conditions in the midwest corn belt has made it difficult for many farmers to get into county agricultural stabilization and conservation offices to sign the papers.

Results of the sign-up have been disappointing to department officials. Considerably less land had been registered than at a comparable time in last year's program. Furthermore, a department survey of farmers' planting plans indicated that 3.5 per cent more land will be planted to corn than last year.

The department hopes to get 19 million acres of corn and 6 million acres of sorghum grain land placed under retirement — the same as last year.

But through March 8, only 9.8 million acres of corn and 2.5 million acres of sorghum grain land had been signed up.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The nation continues to lose dairy farmers and farms.

Sharp declines were shown for recent years by the agricultural census of 1960.

But evidence of further losses early this year was provided by an Agriculture Department survey which showed that production of milk per dairy farm is running 10 per cent above a year earlier.

Yet, the total production of milk is running only 2 per cent more than a year ago.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The nation's wheat farmers have signed agreements to retire about 22 per cent of the acreage they harvested last year.

An Agriculture Department report showed today that growers have agreed not to plant or harvest wheat from 12.2 million acres of the 55-million-acre production allotment assigned them in recent years under a control program.

Pickaway Soil Savers

By Drexel Poling

The Pickaway Soil Savers 4-H club acquired five new members at their March 12 meeting making a total membership of 13.

The advisers, Don Archer and Casey Neal, explained that the project would cover conservation of soil, water and wildlife. They also outlined possible demonstrations for the fair.

Larry Vance, vice president, presided at the meeting. Gale LaRue and Tom Duvall were appointed to have the constitution and by-laws ready to be read at the next meeting.

Robert Bower and Drexel Poling will serve as the program committee. Dues were set at $1 for the year.

The meeting dates were set for the fourth Monday of every month. The next meeting will be April 23.

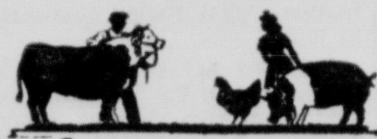

Kitchen Kaperettes

By Daryl Reichelderfer

The second meeting of the Kitchen Kaperettes was held March 21 in the Logan Elm School, with advisers Mrs. Don Miller and Mrs. Don Hulise present.

Officers elected for the year were: Leola Harmon, president; Douglas Huffines, vice president; Page Miller, secretary; Pamela Parker, treasurer; Judy Young health adviser; Rebecca Alkire, safety director; Cheryl Hulise and Nancy Current, recreation leaders; Daryl Reichelderfer, news reporter.

The next meeting of the group will be March 28.

Woman Livestock Judge Thinks Mainly of Housewives' Plight

HE'S A BOAR — Cecilia Neville, the country's only woman livestock judge, looks over Berkshire boar at National Stock show in Denver. Bob Jacobson of Indiana, Ia., shows hog.

By ROBERT D. LEWIS

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP) — The housewife who likes to pinch and jab before buying a roast for dinner has a real friend in Mrs. Cecilia Neville — the country's only woman livestock judge.

"I think of the housewife," says Mrs. Neville, "when I'm in the judging arena. What she's going to want when she goes to the supermarket — the lowest amount of fat, good lean meat. . . Those are the things I look for."

"It is very important that we have good breeding stock so better meat will show up in the markets."

Mrs. Neville became the country's only female livestock judge 7½ years ago at the Daviess County Fair in southern Indiana. She started judging cattle, but in recent years has been concentrating on swine.

Topping her judging assignments last year was an appearance at a national swine show in Edinburgh, Scotland. She also judged at state fairs in Indiana, Iowa and Ohio; the Arkansas Livestock Exposition; the Mid-South Show at Memphis and a show at San Francisco's Cow Palace — "that was a real thrill".

Her 1962 itinerary began with an appearance at a Denver, Colo., stock show.

In previous years — 1958-59-60, she judged at the National Barrow Show in Austin, Minn. And in 1958 became the first and only woman ever to enter the arena as a judge at the grand-daddy of the stock shows — the International Livestock Exposition in Chicago.

Animals were nothing new to the tall blonde when she broke into livestock judging. She is the daughter of the late Jess C. Andrew of West Point, Ind., who was president of the International Livestock Exposition for many years.

As a youngster she competed in 4-H Club competition, "showing cattle and sheep for eight years."

"It never occurred to me in those days that someday I would be judging the animals instead of showing them," says Mrs. Neville. "But I guess it was my love for animals that got me started."

She took an animal husbandry course at nearby Purdue University and was advised by the teacher to try judging. She did and liked it.

"I was determined to be the best possible," she says. During the years, she has taken many other agriculture courses at Purdue to broaden her knowledge of animals.

"I knew when I went into the ring for the first time I had to prove myself," says Mrs. Neville. "There were so many professional farmers in the audience. They knew the best animal, and I had to prove to them that I did."

It has become rather common to see Mrs. Neville judging animals but she still hears the same remarks: "What is that lady doing with all those pigs?"

When she steps over to the microphone, she leaves no doubt in the minds of spectators and exhibitors that she has selected the best animal. " . . . steps out well," and "has better hams and loins," she may say.

Why haven't other women followed Mrs. Neville into the livestock judging field?

"Perhaps it is the difficulties that exist when you try to break into a man's world," she says.

Mrs. Neville and her husband, Maurice Sr., breed Yorkshire swine on their 350-acre farm near Lafayette where they live with their two teen-age children, Maurice Jr., 17, and Cecilia, 15. In addition, they operate 2,000 acres in nearby Benton County where the chief product is purebred Angus and Hereford cattle.

Butchers probably are as respectful of Mrs. Neville as are livestock exhibitors. "I buy meat like I judge an animal," she says. "I am very critical when I do my shopping. In fact, you might say I look at a steak just like I would judge an animal on the hoof."

Soybean Growing Area Is Invaded

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent,
Agriculture

Phytophthora root rot has invaded all of the soybean growing area of Ohio. Although this disease can destroy the entire crop, damage is usually less severe.

Most often only portions of the field are destroyed, or large areas are damaged. This latter is not as obvious as the former and frequently is not noticed.

This disease causes internal browning and discoloration of the root and lower stems. It may either kill the plant or stunt its growth. Plants may be affected at any stage of growth from seedling to maturity.

To date pathologists have not been able to curb this root rot with any chemical method. The only control relied on now is resistant soybean varieties.

HENRY, Madison and Ross varieties are the only varieties recommended at present to be resistant to this root rot.

It is difficult for a farmer to tell if he has root rot or not. It is also hard to determine where the rot may destroy an entire field. Farmers who have suspected some damage from the disease should try at least one of the resistant varieties to assist in root rot loss determination in the same field with his normal variety.

The comparative yield of Madison, Henry or Ross beans is about the same. However, the Henry matures in 123 days, Madison 126 days and Ross 131 days. These varieties also yield favorably with more popular varieties.

Also to be pointed out is that in tests run on root rot research, the occurrence of the disease is no greater in a field of soybeans planted after soybeans than it is with any other crop.

The first meeting of the Town and Country Stitches was called to order by the advisers, Mrs. Jesse Peart and Mrs. Howard Lemaster, in the home of Brenda Lemaster on March 13.

Officers for the year are: Brenda Lemaster, president and Jessica Peart, vice president; Mary Ward — secretary and news reporter; Virginia Fullen treasurer, health and safety leader; Vivian Lanman, recreation leader.

It was then decided to take money from the treasury to pay for vanilla the club will be selling. Project books were passed out.

Refreshments were served by Jessica Peart and Brenda Lemaster. The next meeting will be at the home of Sharon Mace on March 27.

Jr. Leaders for the year are Jessica Peart and Brenda Lemaster.

Salt Creek Sew and Serve By Elaine Judy

The ninth meeting of the club was held March 14, after school. The business meeting was not too long. After the meeting the girls worked on a community project.

Our next meeting will be March 28 after school. At this meeting Elaine Judy will have devotions.

Cloverleaf Pony Club

By Beverly Lane

The fifth meeting of the Cloverleaf Pony Club was called to order by the president. Pledges were led by the vice president.

Questions regarding projects were asked. The club will be selling tickets for the dedication banquet for the 4-H and Grange Building at the fairgrounds.

The next meeting will be Monday.

Future Farmers of Monroe

By Joyce Long

The Future Farmers of Monroe 4-H club held its second meeting Wednesday March 14, at the school house.

The meeting was called to order by president Jim Shell and the 4-H pledge was led by Gary Neff. Roll call was answered by each member naming his project.

The constitution was read and the date for the election of officers was changed from March to February due to the change of the fair dates. All meetings will be held in the school house instead of the members homes.

The next meeting will be 8 p. m. March 28.

An officers meeting was held at the home of president Jim Shell on Monday, March 5. At this meeting health, recreation, and safety leaders were appointed. They are: Gary Neff and Cathy Redman, health leader; Oj Ann Seibel, Ginger Hosler, Tommy Hamilton and Ernie Lindsey, recreation leaders; Barbara Tallman and Timmy Hamilton, safety leaders.

Washington Hill Climbers

By Connie Kempton

The Washington Hill Climbers 4-H club meeting was March 15, at the home of Nelson Stevens.

New officers elected for the year are: Fred Crist, president; Mike Moorehead, vice president; Larry Downs, secretary; Jimmy Lands, treasurer; Jimmy Moorehead, recreation leader; Bobby Lands, health and safety leader; and Connie Kempton, news reporter.

Projects for this year were discussed during the meeting. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Nelson Stevens. The next meeting will be held at the home of Connie Kempton.

Walnut Wonder Workers

By Roe Riegel

The Walnut Wonder Workers held their organizational meeting March 15 at the Walnut Twp. School.

Officers elected for this year are: William Diehl — president; Douglas Dunkle — vice president; Gary Thomas — secretary; Janet Schneider — treasurer; Roe Riegel — Circleville news reporter; Nancy Hines — Ashville news reporter; Norma Noecker — health representative; Alan Peters — recreation leader; and Ray Noecker — safety leader.

Presentations and awards were given for last year's work. Several new members joined and our leaders are Jay Hay and Roger Schneider. Recreation followed adjournment of the meeting.

The next meeting will be announced later.

Jackson Livestock

By Linda Minor

The second meeting of the Jackson Livestock 4-H club was held by the 4-H pledge led by Eddie Boyer. The pledge to the flag was led by Gary Thompson.

Roll call showed we had a total of 23 members and all were present. Each of the new members introduced himself and told what his project would be.

The main topic of the business meeting was the discussion of projects. After the meeting was adjourned recreation was held in the school gym.

The next meeting will be 8 p. m. March 27 at the school.

Merry Mixers

By Mona Davis

The second meeting of the Merry Mixers 4-H club was held March 12 in the Circleville High School with 12 members present.

The vice president brought the meeting to order and the 4-H and American pledges were given.

The constitution was read and it was decided to keep it as it was. The application slips it was handed in to Mrs. Bartholomew.

Mrs. Bartholomew explained how the club receives points to make a honor club. The club is to sell tickets for the dedication banquet for the new 4-H building.

Mrs. Bartholomew also passed out pamphlets to the girls entitled "How to Master the Art of Making Cookies." The meeting was then adjourned.

A card was passed for the girls to sign to send to Mrs. Westenhaver. Jeanne Bartholomew gave a demonstration on how to mend holes. Mary Lou Skaggs directed recreation.

Stir and Chatter

By Lorna Poling

The Stir and Chatter 4-H club made favors March 10, at the home of the adviser, Mrs. Sterling Poling. The favors are for the dedication of the 4-H and Grange Building.

The adviser checked the members' tea towels and aprons. The club will have a bake sale at Barnhills on April 28, from 9 a. m. to noon.

The next meeting will be 3:30

Feed Grain Registration Reported Slow

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department may give feed grain growers additional time this spring to agree to retire corn and sorghum grain land under a surplus reduction program. So far, registration has been slow.

The registration period is to close March 31, but department field officials and some farm groups are urging a time extension. They say adverse weather conditions in the midwest corn belt has made it difficult for many farmers to get into county agricultural stabilization and conservation offices to sign the papers.

Results of the sign-up have been disappointing to department officials. Considerably less land had been registered than at a comparable time in last year's program. Furthermore, a department survey of farmers' planting plans indicated that 3.5 per cent more land will be planted to corn than last year.

The department hopes to get 19 million acres of corn and 6 million acres of sorghum grain land placed under retirement — the same as last year.

But through March 8, only 9.8 million acres of corn and 2.5 million of sorghum grain land had been signed up.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The nation continues to lose dairy farmers and farms.

Sharp declines were shown for recent years by the agricultural census of 1960.

But evidence of further losses early this year was provided by an Agriculture Department survey which showed that production of milk per dairy farm is running 10 per cent above a year earlier.

Yet, the total production of milk is running only 2 per cent more than a year ago.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The nation's wheat farmers have signed agreements to retire about 22 per cent of the acreage they harvested last year.

An Agriculture Department report showed today that growers have agreed not to plant or harvest wheat from 12.2 million acres of the 55-million-acre production allotment assigned them in recent years under a control program.

p. m. March 27 at the First Methodist Church.

Pickaway Soil Savers

By Drexel Poling

The Pickaway Soil Savers 4-H club acquired five new members at their March 12 meeting making a total membership of 13.

The advisers, Don Archer and Casey Neal, explained that the project would cover conservation of soil, water and wildlife. They also outlined possible demonstrations for the fair.

Larry Vance, vice president, presided at the meeting. Gale LaRue and Tom Duvall were appointed to have the constitution and by-laws ready to be read at the next meeting.

Robert Bower and Drexel Poling will serve as the program committee. Dues were set at $1 for the year.

The meeting dates were set for the fourth Monday of every month. The next meeting will be April 23.

Kitchen Kaperettes

By Daryl Reichelderfer

The second meeting of the Kitchen Kaperettes was held March 21 in the Logan Elm School, with advisers Mrs. Don Miller and Mrs. Don Hulse present.

Officers elected for the year were: Leola Harmon, president; Douglas Huffines, vice president; Page Miller, secretary; Pamela Parker, treasurer; Judy Young health adviser; Rebecca Alkire, safety director; Cheryl Hulse and Nancy Current, recreation leaders; Sharon Graves, song leader; Daryl Reichelderfer, news reporter.

The next meeting of the group will be March 28.

Woman Livestock Judge Thinks Mainly of Housewives' Plight

HE'S A BOAR — Cecilia Neville, the country's only woman livestock judge, looks over Berkshire pig at National Stock show in Denver. Bob Jackson of Indianapolis, Ia., shows hog.

By ROBERT D. LEWIS

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP) — The housewife who likes to pinch and jab before buying a roast for dinner has a real friend in Mrs. Cecilia Neville — the country's only woman livestock judge.

"I think of the housewife," says Mrs. Neville, "when I'm in the judging arena. What she's going to want when she goes to the supermarket — the lowest amount of fat, good lean meat. . . Those are the things I look for."

"It is very important that we have good breeding stock so better meat will show up in the markets."

Mrs. Neville became the country's only female livestock judge 7½ years ago at the Daviess County Fair in southern Indiana. She started judging cattle, but in recent years has been concentrating on swine.

Topping her judging assignments last year was an appearance at a national swine show in Edinburgh, Scotland. She also judged at state fairs in Indiana, Iowa and Ohio; the Arkansas Livestock Exposition; the Mid-South Show at Memphis and a show at San Francisco's Cow Palace — "that was a real thrill!"

He 1962 itinerary began with an appearance at a Denver, Colo., stock show.

In previous years — 1958-59-60, she judged at the National Barrow Show in Austin, Minn. And in 1958 became the first and only woman ever to enter the arena as a judge at the grand-daddy of the stock shows — the International Livestock Exposition in Chicago.

Animals were nothing new to the tall blonde when she broke into livestock judging. She is the daughter of the late Jess C. Andrew of West Point, Ind., who was president of the International Livestock Exposition for many years. As a youngster she competed in 4-H Club competition, "showing cattle and sheep for eight years."

"It never occurred to me in those days that someday I would be judging the animals instead of showing them," says Mrs. Neville. "But I guess it was my love for animals that got me started."

She took an animal husbandry course at nearby Purdue University and was advised by the teacher to try judging. She did and liked it.

"I was determined to be the best possible," she says. During the years, she has taken many other agriculture courses at Purdue to broaden her knowledge of animals.

"I knew when I went into the ring for the first time I had to prove myself," says Mrs. Neville. "There were so many professional farmers in the audience. They knew the best animal, and I had to prove to them that I did."

It has become rather common to see Mrs. Neville judging animals but she still hears the same remarks: "What is that lady doing with all those pigs?"

She has the poise of a showman in the arena. She studies configuration, slaps the backs of the animals with the flat of her hand, watches their gait and evaluates their appearance.

When she steps over to the microphone, she leaves no doubt in the minds of spectators and exhibitors that she has selected the best animal. " . . . steps out well," and "has better hams and loins," she may say.

Why haven't other women followed Mrs. Neville into the livestock judging field?

"Perhaps it is the difficulties that exist when you try to break into a man's world," she says.

Mrs. Neville and her husband, Maurice Sr., breed Yorkshire swine on their 350-acre farm near Lafayette where they live with their two teen-age children, Maurice Jr., 17, and Cecilia, 15. In addition, they operate 2,000 acres in nearby Benton County where the chief product is purebred Angus and Hereford cattle.

Butchers probably are as respectful of Mrs. Neville as are livestock exhibitors. "I buy meat like I judge an animal," she says. "I am very critical when I do my shopping. In fact, you might say I look at a steak just like I would judge an animal on the hoof."

The commendation medal will go to Air Force Capt. Raymond H. Lessig, who is studying for his Ph.D. in operations research.

Lewis Hay, Route 1, Lockbourne, was elected chairman of the Pickaway County Extension Advisory Council at a regular meeting in the County Extension office.

Kenneth Shell, Route 1, Mt. Sterling, was elected vice chairman and Mrs. Judson Beougher, Route 1, Laurelville, was named secretary.

Other items of business included a review of results of the Ohio's Future series and the rat and startling control programs. The 1961 program of results was reviewed and the 1962 plan of work was submitted for approval.

The group also decided that effective April 1, the County Extension office will not be open on Saturday mornings.

The Pickaway County Extension Advisory Council is composed of two representatives from each township in Pickaway County.

Soybean Growing Area Is Invaded

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent,
Agriculture

Phytophthora root rot has invaded all of the soybean growing area of Ohio. Although this disease can destroy the entire crop, damage is usually less severe.

Most often only portions of the field are destroyed, or large areas are damaged. This latter is not as obvious as the former and frequently is not noticed.

This disease causes internal browning and discoloration of the root and lower stems. It may either kill the plant or stunt its growth. Plants may be affected at any stage of growth from seedling to maturity.

To date pathologists have not been able to curb this root rot with any chemical method. The only control relied on now is resistant soybean varieties.

HENRY, Madison and Ross varieties are the only varieties recommended at present to be resistant to this root rot.

It is difficult for a farmer to tell if he has root rot or not. It is also hard to determine where the rot may destroy an entire field. Farmers who have suspected some damage from the disease should try at least one of the resistant varieties to assist in root rot loss determination in the same field with his normal variety.

The comparative yield of Madison, Henry or Ross beans is about the same. However, the Henry matures in 123 days, Madison 126 days and Ross 131 days. These varieties also yield favorably with more popular varieties.

Also to be pointed out is that in tests run on root rot research, the occurrence of the disease is no greater in a field of soybeans planted after soybeans than it is with any other crop.

Many Changes Reflected In 100 Years of Agriculture

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent,
Agriculture

One hundred years of agricultural progress is being celebrated this year. And how farm animals have changed in the 100 years! In the 1900's, a milk cow giving more than 4000 pounds of milk per year was exceptional.

7,000 pounds, but cows enrolled in dairy herd improvement associations average more than 11,000 pounds. This can be attributed to feeding according to a cow's ability to produce breeding animals with desirable traits—better handling—and disease control.

A hundred years ago, many hogs went to market weighing more than 400 pounds. Emphasis was on fat, because lard was in demand for high-energy diets.

Today's ideal hog goes to market weighing around 200 pounds—with more lean meat and less fat. Lean-type strains of hogs have been developed by researchers and farmers to provide pork preferred by consumers.

ANIMAL nutrition research is largely responsible for the juicy beef cuts we enjoy today. Our forefathers fare was largely stringy range beef. Now, farmers using improved concentrates and forages are getting fast weight gains and desirable finish.

The average production of today's hen is 210 eggs per year against about 100 a century ago. Many believe that hens will average 250 eggs per year within a decade.

The strong upsurge of broiler production can be traced to feed conversion. In the 1930's it took about five pounds of feed to produce a pound of broiler—now it is done with less than three pounds—and in a much shorter time. This efficiency has made it possible for consumers to have chicken every day.

There is much more to do in increasing the efficiency of farm animals—and researchers will continue efforts that lead to "better goods for better living."

Pickaway Soil District Enters National Test

The Pickaway County Soil Conservation District has entered the national Soil Conservation Awards program, sponsored by The Good-year Tire and Rubber Co., it was announced today by District Chairman Frank Graves of Route 1, Kingston.

The Pickaway County District will compete against other soil conservation districts in the state. Grand award for one member of the winning district governing body in each of the 52 competing units, and the top cooperating farmer or rancher named by that district, will be an expense-free, vacation trip. The journey will be to Goodyear's winter resort, the Wigwam Guest Ranch on Goodyear Farms, Litchfield Park, Ariz., in November or December.

Members of the Pickaway County district governing body competing for the Goodyear award are Ralph May, Winfred Bidwell, Jay Hay, Frank Graves and Dave Bolender.

Members of the Pickaway County Board and Soil Conservation Service technicians Donald Archer and Casey Neal expressed their gratitude for the helping hand of an industry that realizes its own progress and growth is closely allied to soil and water resources.

National winners of the Good-year Soil Conservation Awards will be honored at seven regular area meetings of the National Assn. of Soil Conservation Districts. Plaques will be awarded at State Conventions to the first and second place winning districts.

Farmers Pull Wheat Out From Loans

WASHINGTON (AP)—Farmers are pulling a large quantity of wheat out from under price support loans to help meet market needs and to take advantage of improving prices.

The Agriculture Department reports that through February, growers had paid off loans on 91 million bushels of this grain. This left only 189 million still stored under loans, the smallest for this time of year since 1957.

This withdrawal of wheat from loans reflects the fact that the 1961 crop was a little short of market needs largely because of drought in some areas.

The department reports that storage of 1961-crop corn under loans has been rather heavy in February, totaling 125 million bushels. By the end of the month 412 million bushels of the crop were under loan, compared with 475 million a year earlier.

Farmers have until May 31 to place 1961 corn under loans. The total quantity so stored will be determined in a large measure by prices in the meantime. When market prices are below the support level, corn moves under loan.

Two New Fertilizer Plants To Open in Kingston, Hebron

A complete fertilizer service, including both liquid and dry fertilizer products, and the special application services that make them easy and profitable to use, will soon be offered to farmers in the area by Flo-Lizer, Inc., of Kingston, according to Don Humphrey and Marion Martin, managers.

Dry fertilizer manufacturing plants are currently under construction in Kingston and Hebron. They are scheduled for completion the first week in April, Humphrey said.

Martin, Hebron, will operate the plant there and Humphrey will manage the Kingston plant.

This $100,000 expansion program by FLO-LIZER, INC., marks a long step forward for the firm, which was organized in 1956 and has specialized in production and sale of liquid fertilizers in the central Ohio area.

THE ADDITION of dry fertilizers in recognition of a growing trend among Ohio farmers toward greater use of granulated dry fertilizers, as well as a trend to higher analysis fertilizers.

Both new plants will offer a complete line of dry fertilizers, in all popular grades and for direct application. They will be available in bags and bulk, whichever the farmer prefers.

In addition, the new plants will "custom-blend" any analysis of nitrogen, phosphate and potash that farmers may request. "Blending" makes it possible for farmers to order and apply a complete plant food manufactured to match exactly soil test or university recommendations, with no loss of plant food through over-or under-analysis, as in the case with pre-determined grades, Humphrey said.

Custom application services for both dry and liquid fertilizer are also available from the firm. Farmers who wish to apply their own fertilizer may rent 2½-ton tractor-drawn spreaders for that purpose.

Soil testing assistance is another aspect of the services offered. Farmers who wish their soil tested may bring their soil samples to either FLO-LIZER office. The firm will pay to have the samples tested by the state. Copies of state recommendations will then be sent to the farmer and to the FLO-LIZER office.

MARTIN, new member of the firm and manager of the Hebron office, brings an active farming background to the fertilizer business. He is currently vice president of the Licking County Agromony Club and a past President of both the Agrarian and Agrolgy Clubs.

Martin purchased his interest in FLO-LIZER, INC., at the same time Norman Dean Godden sold all of his interests in the firm.

Many Changes Reflected In 100 Years of Agriculture

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent,
Agriculture

One hundred years of agricultural progress is being celebrated this year. And how farm animals have changed in the 100 years! In the 1900's, a milk cow giving more than 4000 pounds of milk per year was exceptional.

U. S. production now averages

7,000 pounds, but cows enrolled in dairy herd improvement associations average more than 11,000 pounds. This can be attributed to feeding according to a cow's ability to produce breeding animals with desirable traits—better handling—and disease control.

A hundred years ago, many hogs went to market weighing more than 400 pounds. Emphasis was on fat, because lard was in demand for high-energy diets.

Today's ideal hog goes to market weighing around 200 pounds—with more lean meat and less fat. Lean-type strains of hogs have been developed by researchers and farmers to provide pork preferred by consumers.

ANIMAL nutrition research is largely responsible for the juicy beef cuts we enjoy today. Our forefathers fare was largely stringy range beef. Now, farmers using improved concentrates and forages are getting fast weight gains and desirable finish.

The average production of today's hen is 210 eggs per year against about 100 a century ago. Many believe that hens will average 250 eggs per year within a decade.

The strong upsurge of broiler production can be traced to feed conversion. In the 1930's it took about five pounds of feed to produce a pound of broiler—now it is done with less than three pounds—and in a much shorter time. This efficiency has made it possible for consumers to have chicken every day.

There is much more to do in increasing the efficiency of farm animals—and researchers will continue efforts that lead to "better goods for better living."

Pickaway Soil District Enters National Test

The Pickaway County Soil Conservation District has entered the national Soil Conservation Awards program, sponsored by The Good-year Tire and Rubber Co., it was announced today by District Chairman Frank Graves of Route 1, Kingston.

The Pickaway County District will compete against other soil conservation districts in the state. Grand award for one member of the winning district governing body in each of the 52 competing units, and the top cooperating farmer or rancher named by that district, will be an expense-free, vacation trip. The journey will be to Goodyear's winter resort, the Wigwam Guest Ranch on Goodyear Farms, Litchfield Park, Ariz., in November or December.

Members of the Pickaway County district governing body competing for the Goodyear award are Ralph May, Winfred Bidwell, Jay Hay, Frank Graves and Dave Bolender.

Members of the Pickaway County Board and Soil Conservation Service technicians Donald Archer and Casey Neal expressed their gratitude for the helping hand of an industry that realizes its own progress and growth is closely allied to soil and water resources.

National winners of the Good-year Soil Conservation Awards will be honored at seven regular area meetings of the National Assn. of Soil Conservation Districts. Plaques will be awarded at State Conventions to the first and second place winning districts.

Farmers Pull Wheat Out From Loans

WASHINGTON (AP) — Farmers are pulling a large quantity of wheat out from under price support loans to help meet market needs and to take advantage of improving prices.

The Agriculture Department reports that through February, growers had paid off loans on 91 million bushels of this grain. This left only 189 million still stored under loans, the smallest for this time of year since 1957.

This withdrawal of wheat from loans reflects the fact that the 1961 crop was a little short of market needs largely because of drought in some areas.

The department reports that storage of 1961-crop corn under loans has been rather heavy in February, totaling 125 million bushels. By the end of the month 412 million bushels of the crop were under loan, compared with 475 million a year earlier.

Farmers have until May 31 to place 1961 corn under loans. The total quantity so stored will be determined in a large measure by prices in the meantime. When market prices are below the support level, corn moves under loan.

The Savannah, the world's first nuclear cargo-passenger ship, will spend two days at sea off the Virginia Canes during which her reactor will be brought to about 60 per cent of power.

She will return to her berth at the Coast Guard reserve training station here at noon Sunday.

Two New Fertilizer Plants To Open in Kingston, Hebron

A complete fertilizer service, including both liquid and dry fertilizer products, and the special application services that make them easy and profitable to use, will soon be offered to farmers in the area by Flo-Lizer, Inc., of Kingston, according to Don Humphrey and Marion Martin, managers.

Dry fertilizer manufacturing plants are currently under construction in Kingston and Hebron. They are scheduled for completion the first week in April, Humphrey said.

Martin, Hebron, will operate the plant there and Humphrey will manage the Kingston plant.

This $100,000 expansion program by FLO-LIZER, INC., marks a long step forward for the firm, which was organized in 1956 and has specialized in production and sale of liquid fertilizers in the central Ohio area.

THE ADDITION of dry fertilizers in recognition of a growing trend among Ohio farmers toward greater use of granulated dry fertilizers, as well as a trend to higher analysis fertilizers.

Both new plants will offer a complete line of dry fertilizers, in all popular grades and for direct application. They will be available in bags and bulk, whichever the farmer prefers.

In addition, the new plants will "custom-blend" any analysis of nitrogen, phosphate and potash that farmers may request. "Blending" makes it possible for farmers to order and apply a complete plant food manufactured to match exactly soil test or university recommendations, with no loss of plant food through over- or under-analysis, as in the case with predetermined grades, Humphrey said.

Custom application services for both dry and liquid fertilizer are also available from the firm. Farmers who wish to apply their own fertilizer may rent 2½-ton tractor-drawn spreaders for that purpose.

Soil testing assistance is another aspect of the services offered. Farmers who wish their soil tested may bring their soil samples to either FLO-LIZER office.

The firm will pay to have the samples tested by the state. Copies of state recommendations will then be sent to the farmer and to

MARTIN, new member of the firm and manager of the Hebron office, brings an active farming background to the fertilizer business. He is currently vice president of the Licking County Agronomy Club and a past President of both the Agrarian and Agrolgy Clubs.

Martin purchased his interest in FLO-LIZER, INC., at the same time Norman Dean Godden sold all of his interests in the firm.

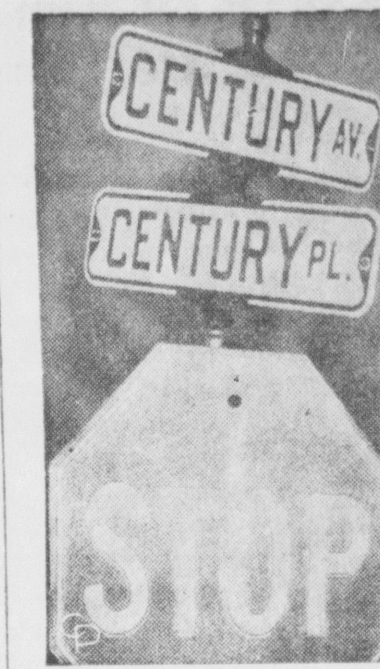

Laos To Print Own Currency

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—The royal Laotian government, hard-pressed for cash after being deprived of American aid, today was reported planning to print money to keep the domestic economy going.

Premier Boun Oum's right-wing government needs money to pay the 60,000-man army and civil servants. The payroll normally is underwritten by the United States to bolster the anti-Communist government.

The United States suspended its monthly $3-million grant to the Vientiane government two months ago in an attempt to force Boun Oum to join with neutralist Prince Souvanna Phouma and pro-Communist Prince Souvanoupong in forming a coalition regime.

Spoiled by Human Tongue

It might be supposed a product as simply constructed as a postage stamp would be one of the more ordinary responsibilities of government. But testimony recently released by a House Appropriations subcommittee unveils the postage stamp as a symbol of governmental complexity.

The occasion of the stamp's starring role was testimony of H. J. Holtzclaw, director of the Bureau of Printing and Engraving. As part of the substantiation of his bureau's past expenditures, Holtzclaw described the manufacture of a postage stamp.

Congressmen were surprised to learn the glue on a postage stamp is no ordinary stickum. Not only is it mixed in carefully controlled 200-gallon vats, with its purity under constant scrutiny by the Food and Drug Administration, but it is applied to the stamps as they come through the presses at a uniform thickness of .0007 of an inch.

Uniformity of this infinitesimal thickness of glue is insured by a battery of "beta ray gauge equipment." The printing and engraving chief did not explain why this particular thickness was considered ideal, but he did acknowledge that some persons "have a tendency to lick too much of the gum" and thereby destroy the adhesive equality of the stamp.

Despite all the supervision of the Postal Service, the Food and Drug Administration, the Bureau of Printing and Engraving and the ready availability of the Atomic Energy Commission (to check radioactivity after the beta ray microscopic examination), the epitome of postage stamp perfection is still foiled by the human tongue.

Which simply does not measure tolerances in thousandths of an inch. One way of insuring that this delicate watering process is not overdone might be to flavor those 200-gallon vats — with a pound or two of limburger cheese.

No Substitute for Victory

General MacArthur's truism that there is no substitute for victory in war has a parallel in politics. A head of government who doesn't have enough of a victory to establish dominance in an administration is in constant danger.

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer of West Germany may be in that position now. In last year's elections Adenauer's party failed to maintain its majority in parliament and had to divide offices with another party to assure a majority for the government.

It was assumed at the time this was a makeshift arrangement which might last two or three years. Whether it will last that long is doubtful.

The Social Democratic opposition is concentrating a heavy fire on the chancellor and calling on him to retire. The 86-year-old Adenauer, according to the charge, is too old to offer effective leadership.

This does not square with the facts that Adenauer is in remarkable health for his years and recently has had significant talks with President Charles de Gaulle of France. Those who saw the Adenauer-De Gaulle meeting said the chancellor looked healthier than the president.

But a chink was opened in the chancellor's armor by the inconclusive election results. Prior to that he was unassailable. Now it is doubtful whether he can survive long on his non-victorious base.

Cubans Face Hard Times

With rationing of all sorts, including food, and the high cost of living plaguing the Cuban people, their red rulers are warning them that worse times are ahead. Ernesto Guevara, minister of industries, says the people must work harder for the state-operated enterprises which now comprise 90 per cent of the Cuban economy.

Guevara tells the thousands of militia, men and women, to get off their fat posteriors and start working in agriculture and industry. They are apparently expected to keep up their military drills and work in factories and on farms, too.

Despite this communist organizing effort, the cost of food has soared 50 per cent officially in a year. And that doesn't reflect what a Cuban really has to pay if he wants something. A chicken costs three times the government fixed price in the black market.

The Soviet Union and Red China have Cuban sugar running out their ears—and Cuba has little else to offer in payment for imports. If the world communist conspiracy concludes that Cuba is of little value as a military outpost in the Western Hemisphere, Castro will have to look elsewhere for support. Russia has contributed heavily to Castro's air, naval and other military strength.

But if the Cuban economy generally is breaking down, weapons will not be effective against spreading domestic discontentment. But there is no tangible evidence as yet that the Cuban people are that desperate.

The Complex of Differing Views

By George Sokolsky

The problem that President Kennedy faces, as President Eisenhower faced it, is how to disengage the United States not only from the complications of World War II but the consequences of a long series of events and agreements prior and subsequent thereto. It is very much like an individual's attempt to get out from under, as the expression goes. It very often is impossible.

To the layman, this particular problem always seems easy. Some say that we ought to go to war with Soviet Russia and thus solve all problems. Others say that an atomic war is the most horrible event imaginable and that, if to avoid such a war, it is necessary to give in to Khrushchev, then we ought to give in.

But Khrushchev is not our only problem. What about all the financial obligations we have undertaken in all parts of the world? Must we keep on pouring out our wealth? Must we accept the responsibility for every new country that has come into existence? And must we keep the United Nations alive even should it prove to be an instrument for our damage?

Some say, why not let these little countries go their own way even if that way leads to the Kremlin. Others say that we assumed the responsibility of world leadership and that having gone this far, there is nothing we can do about it. And then there is a mass of American public opinion which makes distinctions between the countries they like and the countries they dislike irrespective of American interests. There are the Anglophiles and Francophiles and those who love or hate Spain, and the Old China Hands who would destroy Mao Tse-tung's regime and those who would use food to rescue all peoples from the consequences of their sins by giving them our surplus wheat and butter and whatever comes to hand and there are those who would let all Communists starve to prove that Marxism is a failure. Need we strengthen our enemies so that they might bite the hand that feeds them?

Public opinion in a free country is inevitable mixed because each individual sees things as his knowledge and experience permit and he always can back his opinion by a vote. Besides, we believe that out of debate will come the truth.

Thus, an American President, in his first term, is a prisoner of the complex of differing views. He might succeed as Roosevelt did to direct the force of public opinion into the channels that he chose, but Roosevelt, the politician, was at the beginning of a phase of history in which we still find ourselves and he was extraordinarily popular, although as some of us believed then, as more believe now, undeservedly.

It was his personal popularity which made it possible for him, in his second term, to make vast alterations in our economic and social system and in his third term to involve this country in what eventually became World War II. If World War I was an historical error, World War II and our partnership with Soviet Russia, particularly our willingness to sacrifice the British and Dutch Empires to Soviet Russia, proved to be a magnificent tragedy. Tehran and Yalta will go down in American history as headstones of defeat.

However, it is not easy to stay within the margins of our responsibilities without bringing on a war, if not on us, then one with our allies and our new friends, the former foes. Nor is it easy to disengage ourselves from these responsibilities without giving Soviet Russia a free hand to conquer much of the world. Two ideas, conflicting ideas, offer themselves as remedies:

One is that we use friendship, propaganda, educational exchanges, good will and all the virtues of our civilization and the advantages of our wealth to aid nations to rise in their standards of life

"Nonsense, Mr. Pilbeam! The whole world isn't against you. The people of the United States, perhaps, but not the whole world."

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

A CONTRETEMPS in the world of books may have been suffered by a rather shabby character on the fringe of the publishing fraternity who fell afoul of a local vice society.

The snooper-in-chief declared that one of the little man's publications was pornographic, and haled him into court. The publisher declared the book to be purer than the Bobsey Twins. The judge threw out the case, and the reassured publisher whipped up a new advertising campaign, more flamboyant and titillating than ever.

Suddenly the post-office authorities camped on his doorstep. A frustrated customer had complained that his advertising was fraudulent, promising lurid thrills, but not delivering same. The hapless publisher, back in court with the same old book, promptly reversed his field and convinced a brand-new judge that the book was indeed a sizzler, living up to what promised in the advertisements.

For the nonce he is sitting pretty. His one dread is that some day those two judges are going to meet and start comparing notes!

It's only an ingrown toenail but, inside your shoe, it feels like a ragged-edged razor ripping into raw flesh!

Toenails grow in when you trim them too short. Tight shoes and socks jam tender flesh against the nail's pointed piercing corner. Nails with damaged roots sometimes curve to one side. Fungus infections may also point nails straight into raw flesh.

Germ creep in and scar tissue tries to grow. The raw flesh swells into a tender red sponge, covering the edge of the nail. Toe nails aren't as ingrown as they look!

Never treat serious ingrown toenails yourself. Don't even treat mild ones if you suffer from diabetes or sluggish circulation.

Otherwise, separate nail and flesh with a small adhesive strip ("towline"). Anchor one end of the adhesive to the flesh and gently draw it away from the nail. Wrap the tape around the toe to keep the flesh pulled away.

Medicines like gentian violet help form a protective shield in the groove between nail and flesh.

Sometimes you can slide a wisp of cotton — lubricated with castor oil — under the edge of the nail. If it doesn't slide right in, don't force. Call your doctor or podiatrist! He can prescribe penicillin or other germ-killers for any infection.

Hot soaks help, too. Between soaks, lie down and prop the foot up on pillows.

If necessary, the doctor can trim a way the edge of the nail while Novocain R numbs the toe. By scooping out roots, he can keep the nail narrow.

Prevent ingrown toenails! Avoid tight shoes and stockings that squeeze toes like canned sardines. Cut toenails straight across — or U-shaped — with the corners sticking out beyond the skin.

After a hot bath or shower, toenails soften and are easy to trim. Guard against overenthusiastic trimming.

The spirit may be willing but the flesh is still weak!

Poodle Saves Aged Master, Lying Helpless

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A poodle named Pierre was credited by police with leading rescuers to his aged master who had spent a rainy night lying helpless in a Golden Gate Park.

The man, Charles Suggs, 86, apparently fell into the ravine while walking the dog Wednesday night, officers said.

The dog approached Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Fazzi and began barking.

"We have two dogs of our own," said Mrs. Fazzi, "and he looked so wet and forlorn that we decided to pick him up."

But Pierre dashed away, then stopped and looked back. The Fazzis followed and came upon Suggs, who was unconscious.

The Fazzis called police. Suggs was taken to a hospital suffering from shock and exposure but doctors said his condition was surprisingly good.

"That dog's a hero," said Suggs' wife, Alma, who had reported her husband missing the night before. "We'll love him to the death. He saved my husband's life."

Governor Hails C&O-B&O Merger

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va. (AP)—Gov. W. W. Barron hailed the proposed merger of the Chesapeake & Ohio and Baltimore & Ohio railroads as a meaningful prospective new growth and development for West Virginia.

Welcoming stockholders of both railroads at a meeting here, Barron reaffirmed his approval of the proposed consolidation.

"A unified . . . system, I am sure, will provide greater security for these (railroad) men and women and a new era of growth and development for West Virginia," the governor said in a prepared speech.

"It is my hope . . . that positive action will be taken very soon to unite these two great railroads."

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor:

Recently I have become interested in the National Farm Organization which currently making efforts to establish a charter unit in Pickaway County.

I speak for many other area farmers who also have expressed interest in the NFO. However, I felt it was to the best interests of everyone that an inquiry be made concerning the organization.

To conduct this check, I sent a letter to Gallatin, Mo., the home community of two NFO representatives who currently are making contacts in this area.

This letter was directed to the Gallatin Chamber of Commerce. The body in turn forwarded the correspondence to Marion D. Murray, president of the Bank of Gallatin.

Here is the text of the letter I sent and the answer received from Mr. Murray:

Dear Sirs:

Men from Davis County, Missouri, have come to our section of Ohio for the purposes of organizing the NFO (National Farmer's Organization).

They have asked me to join and to take part in organizing this area.

I would like any information you can send me concerning it, as to its legality, volume of membership, etc.

Is this the organization's way of working — sending members into new areas?

If this organization is a worthwhile one I want to help all I can.

Could you please send information that I could have published or have to show to prospective members?

If possible I would like this on paper with your office letterhead, not something from the NFO itself.

This matter is important to me. I have always been a resident of Pickaway County, Ohio, and do not want to misrepresent anything or harm my neighbors and friends in any way.

Please reply at your earliest convenience.

William L. Davis
Mt. Sterling, O.

Dear Mr. Davis:

The president of the Gallatin Chamber of Commerce has handed me your letter of March 17 requesting that I furnish you with the desired information.

The National Farmers Organization is a fine organization of farmers trying to help themselves rather than running to the government for aid as has been the case far too many times the past 15 or 20 years.

Their program of collective bargaining for agriculture is legal in every respect in that the necessary authority for farmers to bargain collectively for fair prices has been provided for many years under the Capper-Volstead Act, but it has never been used by farmers in the Midwest.

The total membership of the NFO is of course unknown to the general public for obvious reasons. Its strength has been growing rapidly the past two years and from all indications it will continue to grow as sincere farmers like yourself learn and recognize that this organization is waging a battle for fair prices which will benefit both farmers and businessmen.

Agriculture is the foundation of our entire economy as all new wealth comes from the land, and if our farmers are prosperous our entire economy will be healthy.

Another strong point of the NFO is that the organization is run by dirt farmers. To increase membership this past year or two the group has been sending farmer members into other states to inform the new areas of the NFO program.

Our county now has two men in Ohio and it is possible that you have been contacted by them. I am asking the National Office of the NFO at Corning, Ia., to send you other printed information concerning the program for publication and for contacts with other farmers in your county.

I want to compliment you for taking the time to investigate the organization's program and I can certainly appreciate the fact you want to be sure it is sound before you become a member and before you recommend it to your neighbors.

In closing, let me say that as long as this program is formulated and run by sincere farmers like yourself and the men I know here in our county, it will be on solid ground. I feel it will succeed because I have confidence in their judgment, honesty and integrity.

I suggest you lend all possible help to increase the membership in your county, and by doing so you will not only have rendered a good service to your neighbors, but also a valuable economic service to your community.

116th Birthday Fete Is Deplored

CINCINNATI (AP)—Richard Davis demanded to know what all the excitement was about as he and friends celebrated his 116th birthday at Drake Hospital Thursday.

"I didn't do nothing," he barked. "It's just what God gave me. A heap of people make it to this old—but they just go along, don't do nothing, and nobody ever knows."

Davis said he worked as a tenant farmer in Lancaster, Ky., for 50 years, then railroaded awhile before retiring at age 102. He has nine children — all in their 60s — still living and feels there is nothing exceptional in just "working hard and living your life to the limit the way the good Lord wants it."

Politicians Now Study Effects of Redistricting

WASHINGTON (AP) — Now that the task of congressional redistricting due to population shifts is about over, major party election experts see the possible results this way:

Republicans figure they will wind up with a net gain of about eight House seats as a result of the reapportionment, although they believe some of the new contests, such as in Hawaii and Michigan, will be close.

Democrats say the GOP claims are too optimistic, and figure to come out of the reshuffling with a net loss of not more than four seats. They say with a hard fight they could reduce this estimate.

The main difference between the estimates lies in the GOP claim of a gain of one seat each in Arizona, Hawaii, Michigan and Ohio. Democrats put these new seats in the doubtful column and say they should have an edge in Michigan.

Also, there is some conflict in the two-party claims respecting California, New York and Pennsylvania.

In all, 16 states lose 21 House memberships and nine states gain 19 seats under the 1960 census, which will be reflected in the Nov. 6 elections.

Of the losing states, only Massachusetts, whose House delegation is cut from 14 to 12, and Mississippi, reduced from 6 to 5, have yet to be reduced. Both states are considering the matter, but the Bay State has a much tougher problem and there is a prospect that all 12 representatives will be forced to run in statewide races.

Alabama, cut from 9 to 8, also has not yet been reduced, but has a novel primary plan which will result in all 8 seats being filled at large.

Of the states that gain seats, Hawaii, Michigan, Ohio and Texas, which pick up 1 each, have not remapped, so they will elect their extra member at large. Maryland will too because, after redistricting, the plan was challenged and it will be voted on in a November referendum.

Every Democratic or Republican loss from reapportionment does not necessarily mean a gain for the other party. For example, the Democrats will lose one seat in Alabama and two in Arkansas simply because they now have solid Democratic delegations from those states and reapportionment cut them that many.

Republicans on the other hand are bound to lose one each in Maine and Nebraska without a corresponding gain for the Democrats because both states are now represented in the House only by Republicans and they each lose a seat under the 1960 census.

Without pinpointing the districts, Republican experts figure their redistricting gains to be as follows: 1 seat each in Arizona, Florida, Hawaii, Illinois, Michigan and Ohio; 2 to 4 in California, and 3 to 4 in New York, for a minimum of 11 and a maximum of 14.

They expect to lose one each in Maine, Nebraska and Pennsylvania. The latter state loses three seats under reapportionment and the Republicans estimate the Democrats will lose two and the GOP one in this situation.

The Democratic experts figure to lose 1 seat each in Alabama, Illinois (possible), Iowa, Kentucky, Mississippi and Missouri; 2 in Arkansas, and from 2 to 5 in New York, for a total loss of from 10 to 13 seats.

They figure to offset this loss by gains of from 6 to 8 in California, 2 in Florida, and 1 in New Jersey, for a total gain of some 9 to 11 seats.

Spoiled by Human Tongue

It might be supposed a product as simply constructed as a postage stamp would be one of the more ordinary responsibilities of government. But testimony recently released by a House Appropriations subcommittee unveils the postage stamp as a symbol of governmental complexity.

The occasion of the stamp's starring role was testimony of H. J. Holtzclaw, director of the Bureau of Printing and Engraving. As part of the substantiation of his bureau's past expenditures, Holtzclaw described the manufacture of a postage stamp.

Congressmen were surprised to learn the glue on a postage stamp is no ordinary stickum. Not only is it mixed in carefully controlled 200-gallon vats, with its purity under constant scrutiny by the Food and Drug Administration, but it is applied to the stamps as they come through the presses at a uniform thickness of .0007 of an inch.

Uniformity of this infinitesimal thickness of glue is insured by a battery of "beta ray gauge equipment." The printing and engraving chief did not explain why this particular thickness was considered ideal, but he did acknowledge that some persons "have a tendency to lick too much of the gum" and thereby destroy the adhesive equality of the stamp.

Despite all the supervision of the Postal Service, the Food and Drug Administration, the Bureau of Printing and Engraving and the ready availability of the Atomic Energy Commission (to check radioactivity after the beta ray microscopic examination), the epitome of postage stamp perfection is still foiled by the human tongue.

Which simply does not measure tolerances in thousandths of an inch. One way of insuring that this delicate watering process is not overdone might be to flavor those 200-gallon vats — with a pound or two of limburger cheese.

No Substitute for Victory

General MacArthur's truism that there is no substitute for victory in war has a parallel in politics. A head of government who doesn't have enough of a victory to establish dominance in an administration is in constant danger.

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer of West Germany may be in that position now. In last year's elections Adenauer's party failed to maintain its majority in parliament and had to divide offices with another party to assure a majority for the government.

It was assumed at the time this was a makeshift arrangement which might last two or three years. Whether it will last that long is doubtful.

Cubans Face Hard Times

With rationing of all sorts, including food, and the high cost of living plaguing the Cuban people, their red rulers are warning them that worse times are ahead. Ernesto Guevara, minister of industries, says the people must work harder for the state-operated enterprises which now comprise 90 per cent of the Cuban economy.

Guevara tells the thousands of militia, men and women, to get off their fat posteriors and start working in agriculture and industry. They are apparently expected to keep up their military drills and work in factories and on farms, too.

Despite this communist organizing effort, the cost of food has soared 50 per cent officially in a year. And that doesn't reflect what a Cuban really has to pay if he wants something. A chicken costs three times the government fixed price in the black market.

The Soviet Union and Red China have Cuban sugar running out their ears—and Cuba has little else to offer in payment for imports. If the world communist conspiracy concludes that Cuba is of little value as a military outpost in the Western Hemisphere, Castro will have to look elsewhere for support. Russia has contributed heavily to Castro's air, naval and other military strength.

But if the Cuban economy generally is breaking down, weapons will not be effective against spreading domestic discontentment. But there is no tangible evidence as yet that the Cuban people are that desperate.

The Complex of Differing Views

By George Sokolsky

The problem that President Kennedy faces, as President Eisenhower faced it, is how to disengage the United States not only from the complications of World War II but the consequences of a long series of events and agreements prior and subsequent thereto. It is very much like an individual's attempt to get out from under, as the expression goes. It very often is impossible.

To the layman, this particular problem always seems easy. Some say that we ought to go to war with Soviet Russia and thus solve all problems. Others say that an atomic war is the most horrible event imaginable and that if, to avoid such a war, it is necessary to give in to Khrushchev, then we ought to give in.

But Khrushchev is not our only problem. What about all the financial obligations we have undertaken in all parts of the world? Must we keep on pouring out our wealth? Must we accept the responsibility for every new country that has come into existence? And must we keep the United Nations alive even should it prove to be an instrument for our damage?

Some say, why not let these little countries go their own way even if that way leads to the Kremlin. Others say that we assumed the responsibility of world leadership and that having gone this far, there is nothing we can do about it. And then there is a mass of American public opinion which makes distinctions between the countries they like and the countries they dislike irrespective of American interests. There are the Anglophiles and Francophiles and those who love or hate Spain, and the Old China Hands who would destroy Mao Tse-tung's regime and those who would use food to rescue all peoples from the consequences of their sins by giving them our surplus wheat and butter and whatever comes to hand and there are those who would let all communists starve to prove that Marxism is a failure. Need we strengthen our enemies so that they might bite the hand that feeds them?

Public opinion in a free country is inevitable mixed because each individual sees things as his knowledge and experience permit and he always can back his opinion by a vote. Besides, we believe that out of debate will come the truth.

Thus, an American President, in his first term, is a prisoner of the complex of differing views. He might succeed as Roosevelt did to direct the force of public opinion into the channels that he chose, but Roosevelt, the politician, was at the beginning of a phase of history in which we still find ourselves and he was extraordinarily popular, although as some of us believed then, as more believe now, undeservedly.

It was his personal popularity which made it possible for him, in his second term, to make vast alterations in our economic and social system and in his third term to involve this country in what eventually became World War II. If World War I was an historical error, World War II and our partnership with Soviet Russia, particularly our willingness to sacrifice the British and Dutch Empires to Soviet Russia, proved to be a magnificent tragedy. Tehran and Yalta will go down in American history as headstones of defeat.

However, it is not easy to stay within the margins of our responsibilities without bringing on a war, if not on us, then one with our allies and our new friends, the former foes. Nor is it easy to disengage ourselves from these responsibilities without giving Soviet Russia a free hand to conquer much of the world. Two ideas, conflicting ideas, offer themselves as remedies:

One is that we use friendship, propaganda, educational exchanges, good - will and all the virtues of our civilization and the advantages of our wealth to aid nations to rise in their standards of life

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

A CONTRETEMPS in the world of books may have been suffered by a rather shabby character on the fringe of the publishing fraternity who fell afoul of a local vice society.

The snooper-in-chief declared that one of the little man's publications was pornographic, and haled him into court. The publisher declared the book to be purer than the Bobsey Twins. The judge threw out the case, and the reassured publisher whipped up a new advertising campaign, more flamboyant and titillating than ever.

Suddenly the post-office authorities camped on his doorstep. A frustrated customer had complained that his advertising was fraudulent, promising lurid thrills, but not delivering same. The hapless publisher, back in court with the same old book, promptly reversed his field and convinced a brand-new judge that the book was indeed a sizzler, living up to what promised in the advertisements.

For the nonce he is sitting pretty. His one dread is that some day those two judges are going to meet and start comparing notes!

Both states are considering the matter, but the Bay State has a much tougher problem and there is a prospect that all 12 representatives will be forced to run in statewide races.

Alabama, cut from 9 to 8, also has not redistricted, but has a novel primary plan which will result in all 8 seats being filled at large.

Of the states that gain seats, Hawaii, Michigan, Ohio and Texas, which pick up 1 each, have not remapped, so they will elect their extra member at large. Maryland will too because, after redistricting, the plan was challenged and it will be voted on in a November referendum.

Every Democratic or Republican loss from reapportionment does not necessarily mean a gain for the other party. For example, the Democrats will lose one seat in Alabama and two in Arkansas simply because they now have solid Democratic delegations from those states and reapportionment cut them that many.

Republicans on the other hand are bound to lose one each in Maine and Nebraska without a corresponding gain for the Democrats because both states are now represented in the House only by Republicans and they each lose a seat under the 1960 census.

Without pinpointing the districts Republican experts figure they redistricting gains to be as follows: 1 seat each in Arizona, Florida, Hawaii, Illinois, Michigan and Ohio; 2 to 4 in California, and 3 to 4 in New York, for a minimum of 11 and a maximum of 14.

They expect to lose one each in Maine, Nebraska and Pennsylvania. The latter state loses three seats under reapportionment and the Republicans estimate the Democrats will lose two and the GOP one in this situation.

The Democratic experts figure to lose 1 seat each in Alabama, Illinois (possible), Iowa, Kentucky, Mississippi and Missouri; 2 in Arkansas, and from 2 to 5 in New York, for a total loss of from 10 to 13 seats.

They figure to offset this loss by gains of from 6 to 8 in California, 2 in Florida, and 1 in New Jersey, for a total gain of some 9 to 11 seats.

38 Indicted In Loan Probe

8 Columbus Building Firms Are under Fire

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A month of inquiry by the FBI was climaxed Friday with federal grand jury indictment of 38 representatives of eight Columbus home improvement firms in a crackdown on alleged federal loan frauds.

The agents were making arrests on 13 secret indictments charging the 38 persons with 94 counts of illegally obtaining federally insured loans from local lending institutions for home improvement work.

Among those named in the indictments was Harvey Blair, 38, of Washington C.H.

The total amount of the frauds charged in the indictments is $155,195, according to E. D. Mason, special agent in charge of the district FBI office in Cincinnati.

The indictments, returned by the federal jury here, charge the eight firms made "kickbacks" to home owners totaling $54,253. The alleged kickbacks were reportedly used as a sales pitch.

Some representatives of the firms allegedly helped home owners obtain loans for amounts in excess of the cost of the home improvement work, the FBI said. The difference between the actual cost of the work and the loan was allegedly given to the home owner "as a rebate or kickback" to pay off obligations or debts previously incurred, Mason said.

The firms names include Franklin Builders Supply, Inc.; Carl C. Andre, Inc.; Midwest Roofing & Furnace Co.; Diamond Home Improvement; Horizon Builders; Superior Home Maintenance Co.; Buckeye Maintenance & Builders Supply, Inc.; and Lifetime Manufacturing Co.

New Plastic Jacket Aids Blood Vessels

CHICAGO (AP)—A story of how a swollen, weakened blood vessel in the brain can be placed in a plastic jacket was told today by a medical team.

A bugging blood vessel in that area exerts pressure on surrounding tissues and nerves. This can produce pain and paralysis.

But it is also something like a time bomb in the head. If it bursts, the result may be a fatal hemorrhage.

A new surgical technique, placing a jacket on the distended part of the blood vessel, constricts the vessel and prevents further expansion.

The medical men, writing in the Journal of the American Medical Association, said such surgery has had gratifying results in patients who were incapacitated.

A woman, 52, resumed a normal life six months after the operation. Another woman, 40, returned to her teaching post in two months. A 61-year-old woman was able to perform limited household chores.

The plastic is a silicone rubber that can be prepared and applied easily and molded precisely. It firms up rapidly. Although tough enough to contain the bulge, it is elastic enough to permit the blood to flow unimpeded.

The report was written by Drs. Edwin M. Todd, C. Hunter Shelden, Benjamin L. Crue Jr., Robert H. Pudenz, and by William F. Agnew, all of Pasadena, Calif. They are affiliated with the Huntington Memorial Hospital.

Place To Find Out

URBANA, Ill. (AP)—The coed's happy hunting grounds are getting crowded.

Although she still is a minority on the campus, her numbers are on the increase.

At the University of Illinois coeds have pushed the ratio of three men for every woman to two and a half to one.

The girls increased their numbers by 9.32 per cent while men lagged behind with an increase of only 3.37 per cent.

There are 16,364 men and 6,695 women enrolled at the university.

Clothing Drive Set Next Week

The Pickaway County Juvenile Court will conduct its first semi-annual clothing drive for needy families beginning Monday and extending through Saturday.

Donations to the clothing drive may be made by calling GR 4-3950. A free pick-up service is also being offered through the cooperation of Circleville Jaycees and the Stouge Club of Circleville High School next Saturday.

Clothing collected will be sorted, marked for size and displayed in the Clothing Distribution Center, located in the Veterans' Apartment Building, W. High St.

The Clothing Center was established here following a generous response to an appeal made for clothing and household possessions for local families whose homes and possessions were destroyed by fire.

IN THE two months since the establishment of the Clothing Center, more than 300 children have been clothed through the operation of the center.

Ralph Starkey, juvenile probation officer, said school teachers have stated that extended absence from school, in many cases, has been caused by lack of clothing, particularly shoes.

Starkey said year around availability of clothing should help remedy the situation in Pickaway County.

"Since there are no facilities for cleaning or mending, all garments should be clean and in good condition," he added.

Japanese Fans Frightening To U.S. Hoss Opera Heroes

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Found: Something to scare television's horse opera heroes. It's Japanese crowds.

Clint Eastwood and Eric Fleming, a couple of 6-foot-4 giants, have faced just about every kind of hazard in four years of starring in CBS' "Rawhide." But they hadn't seen anything until they went to Japan recently for a goodwill trip at the behest of their Japanese sponsor (a whisky maker).

"I thought I didn't scare easily," said Clint. "I've appeared at rodeos and on the Dick Clark television show where you get crowds that are pretty wild. But nothing like Japan."

"When you've got 12 girls hanging onto you, and not one of them willing to let go, then you've got a problem."

Their arrival at the Tokyo Airport brought 8,000 fans—the Japanese are wild over Westerners, and have been exposed to "Rawhide" for two years.

"There was a bit of delay, because the police wanted our sponsor to put up a bond for extra police protection charges," said Eric.

They managed to hurdle the red tape, though they had to leave their shooting irons in customs. The new, pacifist Japan doesn't approve of anyone, even play-cowboys, toting six-shooters.

The Rawhiders' reception everywhere was clamorous. They received many gifts. They were interviewed and photographed endlessly.

Clint and Eric said they were charmed by the Japanese people and customs and would like to return to enjoy the country without the crowds. That doesn't appear likely, what with their television fame and their height.

"Rawhide" is also playing in England, Sweden, West Germany, Lebanon, Australia and South America, and the boys would like to visit those countries as well.

Search Is Abandoned For Plane in Pacific

GUAM (AP)—The Navy and Air Force has announced that the search has been called off for a Flying Tiger lines Super Constellation with 107 persons aboard that has been missing in the Pacific for eight days.

Spokesmen said that all military and civilian ships in the area will continue to be on the alert for some sign of the missing plane.

Korean Vets Reminded on GI Training

Many of the Ohio Korean veterans who are attending night school, or are taking part-time training under the Korean GI Bill, should accelerate their training if they wish to complete all their courses before their GI benefits terminate.

James C. Robinson, manager of the Veterans Administration Regional office in Cincinnati, pointed out today that a number of veterans in training are going to lose out at the rate they are now going.

Under the law, a Korean veteran's termination date is eight years from the date of his discharge or release from active duty. And, all GI training ends January 31, 1965.

Ohio has more than 5,500 veterans in training at this time. Of these, the majority are attending institutions of higher learning on a full-time basis. Others, however, attend at night, or maintain their training on a part-time basis while they earn a living. It is this latter group which faces deadline difficulties, Robinson explained.

He pointed out that a Korean veteran discharged in 1955 faces a termination date next year.

Robinson suggested that all veterans taking Korean GI Bill training check their individual termination dates. Even some full-time students will find they will have to take additional courses or attend Summer school to get through in time.

How Weather Looks Today

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Official Weather Bureau summary of Ohio's weather outlook:

Skies gradually cleared over the northeastern section of the state during the night, but cloudy skies persisted elsewhere. Patches of heavy fog formed again in the early morning hours. With Cincinnati reporting zero visibility.

Coldest spot in the state this morning was Youngstown where fair skies allowed the temperature to drop to 27. Chesapeake was warmest with 42. Toledo had 33, Columbus 35 and Cincinnati 26.

Sunshine will favor most sections of the state at times today for the first time in about a week. Afternoon temperatures will be a little warmer.

However, a low pressure system centered over the Texas Panhandle this morning will move eastward during the next 24 hours producing rain over Ohio by late tonight or on Sunday. Higher night-time temperatures are forecast for tonight, and a little cooler readings are indicated for Sunday.

U.S. Stockpile Worth $6.25 Billion

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government has accumulated $6.25 billion worth of 12 items for its national strategic stockpile at a cost of $552 million above present market values.

A breakdown on the 12 items, made available to members of Congress after President Kennedy lifted the secrecy label on them, showed today all are held in greater quantities than the amounts calculated as necessary for a three-year war.

Kennedy had ordered the secrecy restrictions removed in preparation of a Senate investigation scheduled to open soon.

The excess, about which Kennedy complained, ranges from 14 per cent for copper to 788 per cent for zinc. With other items which still are classified as secret, this particular stockpile has on hand or on order $2.2 billion more than its actual requirements.

This is only one of nine different stockpiles under which the government has accumulated $13.9 billion in materials, including $5 billion in surplus agricultural commodities. An additional stockpile of nuclear materials is not covered in any public report.

Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., told the Senate Thursday that in many instances hundreds of millions of dollars have been spent for unnecessary items accumulated in the stockpile.

The government could make money on some of the strategic items it holds, if it could dispose of excess without affecting market prices. Congress members were told in the report they received.

It could sell its excess of aluminum for $34 million on molybdenum, $74 million on nickel and $92 million on tin.

But the gains would be more than offset by losses of $95 million on chromite, $72 million on cobalt, $115 million on lead, $202 million on rubber, $314 million on tungsten and $64 million on zinc.

Grade Pupils Give Program At PTO Meet

Grades three and four presented the program at the meeting of the Stoutsville Parent-Teacher Organization this week.

Valeria and Maria Fausnaugh and Vickie and Kay Good performed for an exhibition of baton twirling.

Marjorie Downs, president announced the style show would be held April 14 at Amanda. This event is sponsored by the Amanda and Stoutsville parent teacher groups.

Flippo the Clown will appear at the Stoutsville school in May. The date will be announced soon.

A NOMINATING committee including Mrs. Edna Peters, Stuart Dennis and Mrs. Merle Drum was appointed by the president. Members of the social committee for April are Mrs. Marvin Justus, Mrs. Carl S. H. p. Mrs. Richard Rhymer, Mrs. Merle Rhymer and Mrs. Ruth Brown.

An invitation was extended to the public to attend the Citizens Meeting at Stoutsville.

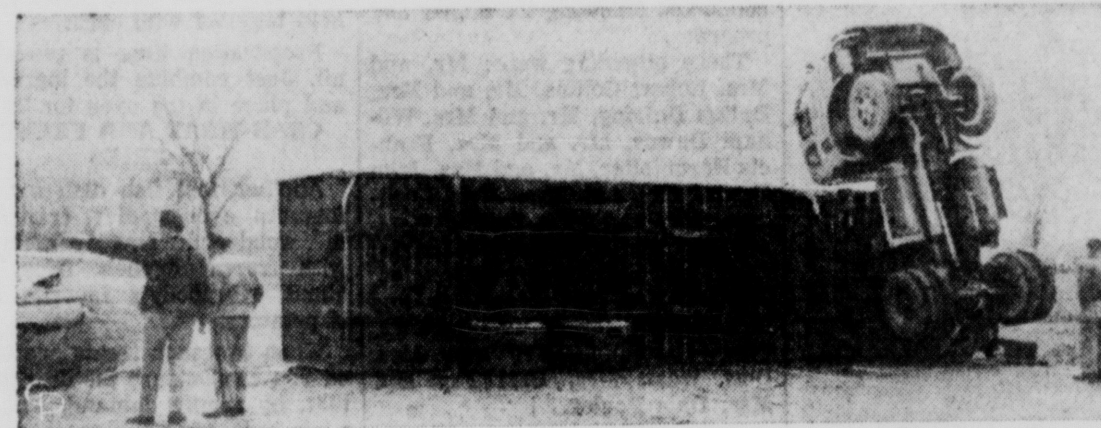

Refreshments were served. A short social period followed the meeting.

Columbus To Get Office Building

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Plans for construction of a 20-story office building in downtown Columbus, with a seven-level public self-park garage at the rear was announced here today.

The site is owned by a group of Columbus people. It was acquired by Disco Corp., of Dallas, Tex., a real estate holding company, under terms of a 60-year lease.

Construction is expected to start during the summer, with occupancy to begin in early 1964. It would be the first major public office building in Columbus in 35 years, the last being the AIU building, now known as LeVeque-Lincoln Tower. Cost of the new building was not estimated, but construction men said it would run in excess of $5 million.

Parcel Post Rate Boost Due for Study

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Interstate Commerce Commission has announced it will consider proposals to boost parcel post rates by $89 million a year.

The decision Thursday means an ICC investigation to determine whether the commission will consent to increases in the size and weight limits on parcels and a rate boost averaging 6 per cent.

By law, the postmaster general must get ICC consent to change the parcel post rates or make other changes in the fourth-class mail rules.

Postmaster General J. Edward Day is seeking:

An increase to 50 pounds in the weight limit on parcel post shipments. The limit now is 40 pounds for parcels mailed up to 150 miles, and 20 pounds for longer shipments; and

A 100-inch limit on the combined length and girth of parcels. The current limit is 72 inches.

White House Rose Garden Change Noted

WASHINGTON (AP) — Something new is being planted, but the White House rose garden won't be known by any other name.

Pierre Salinger, press secretary, gave newsmen the word at a botanical briefing Thursday, and denied a published report the famous garden would be eliminated.

"It's going to remain the rose garden," he said. "There will be roses in it."

There will also be some other flowers, Salinger said. "It's going to be redone to include perennials—and don't ask me which perennials because they haven't been selected yet."

Why?

"To give it color," Salinger said. "Perennials are plants which bloom each year. The plan calls for plants which bloom at different times of the year, so that the garden will have colorful flowers throughout the growing season."

To make way for the new rose garden look, the rose bushes outside President Kennedy's office have been removed temporarily.

National Park Service workers. Mrs. Herbert Hoover had the rose garden planted when her husband was in the White House. The grassy area, bordered by rose bushes, is used traditionally for outdoor ceremonies.

BPW Meeting Highlighted By Election of Officers

The Business and Professional Women's Club of Circleville held its March meeting on Thursday evening in the Methodist Church annex and featured the annual election of officers.

The business meeting was under the direction of Mrs. James Ullman, president. The club voted to continue their membership in the Historical Society. The committee appointed to revise the by-laws of the Club are Mrs. Anna Chandler, chairman, Mrs. Lucille Bostwick, Miss Elma Rains and Dr. Nancy Lu Conrad. Dr. Conrad was also appointed insurance chairman.

Information was received regarding the 42nd annual State convention to be held in Cleveland on May 18, 19, and 20. Those interested in attending are asked to contact Mrs. Ullman.

The annual Cherry Blossom tour to Washington D. C. will be held April 26. The National Convention of the Federation will be held in Los Angeles, Calif., on July 15 through 19.

A report was given by Dr. Conrad on the meeting recently held by the Portsmouth Club in honor of the national president, Miss Kathryn Peden. Several members of the local club attended. Reports were given by the standing committees.

Three new members were accepted — Mrs. Catherine Berry, Mrs. Jeanette Shumann and Miss Donna Jean Walker.

A report was given by Mrs.

Etha Mae Wolford regarding the committees for the Annual Girl Graduate reception to be held April 26, at the Atwater School.

The election of officers was held and the following were voted to preside during 1962-1963:

Mrs. Emma Curlett, president; Mrs. Alice Brown, first vice president; Mrs. Etha Mae Wolford, second vice president; Mrs. Freda Collins, recording secretary; Miss Ruth Hulse, corresponding secretary; Miss Margie Carmean, treasurer.

Dr. Conrad was named a member of the State Nominating Committee.

A program of colored slides was shown by Miss Esther Hess a member of the Chillicothe Club. These were slides which were taken at district meetings and at local club meetings.

The meeting was in charge of the Finance Committee and a secret auction was held. After this, an auction was held of baked goods furnished by members.

Refreshments were served by the committee in charge: Mrs. Carolyn Young, chairman, Mrs. Sondra Walker, Mrs. Lucille Bostwick, Mrs. Alice Brown and Miss Clarissa Talbut. Mrs. Collins and Mrs. Curlett assisted.

The next regular meeting of the club will be held May 24, with a Pot Luck Dinner at the home of Mrs. Ruth Neff, Route 2. The annual Girl Graduate Reception will replace the regular April meeting.

Mrs. Bowman Is Host for WSCS Meet

The regular meeting of the Darbyville WSCS was held in the home of Mrs. Audrey Bowman, Route 1, Williamsport.

The session was opened by the president, Mrs. Shirley Streitenberger, Route 1, Orient. Mrs. Ernestine Dudleson had charge of the devotions. She read the 101 Psalm.

The group sang the hymn, "What a Friend We Have in Jesus", and were led by Mrs. Dudleson in prayer. The thought for the day was "Family".

Ten members and guests were present. During a short business session the president appointed Mrs. Phyllis Hulse, Mrs. Maxine Brigner and Mrs. Dudleson to the nominating committee.

Mrs. Streitenberger announced that Mrs. Madge Grabill would be in charge of devotions and Miss Saralie Grabill would direct the program at the next meet which will be in the home of Miss Mary Clark, Route 1, Orient.

Mrs. Phyllis Hulse presented the program. She read from "The Upper Room" and gave a reading, "The Moon Was Down". A contest was played. Following the benediction the hostess served refreshments.

Husbands Feted With Dinner

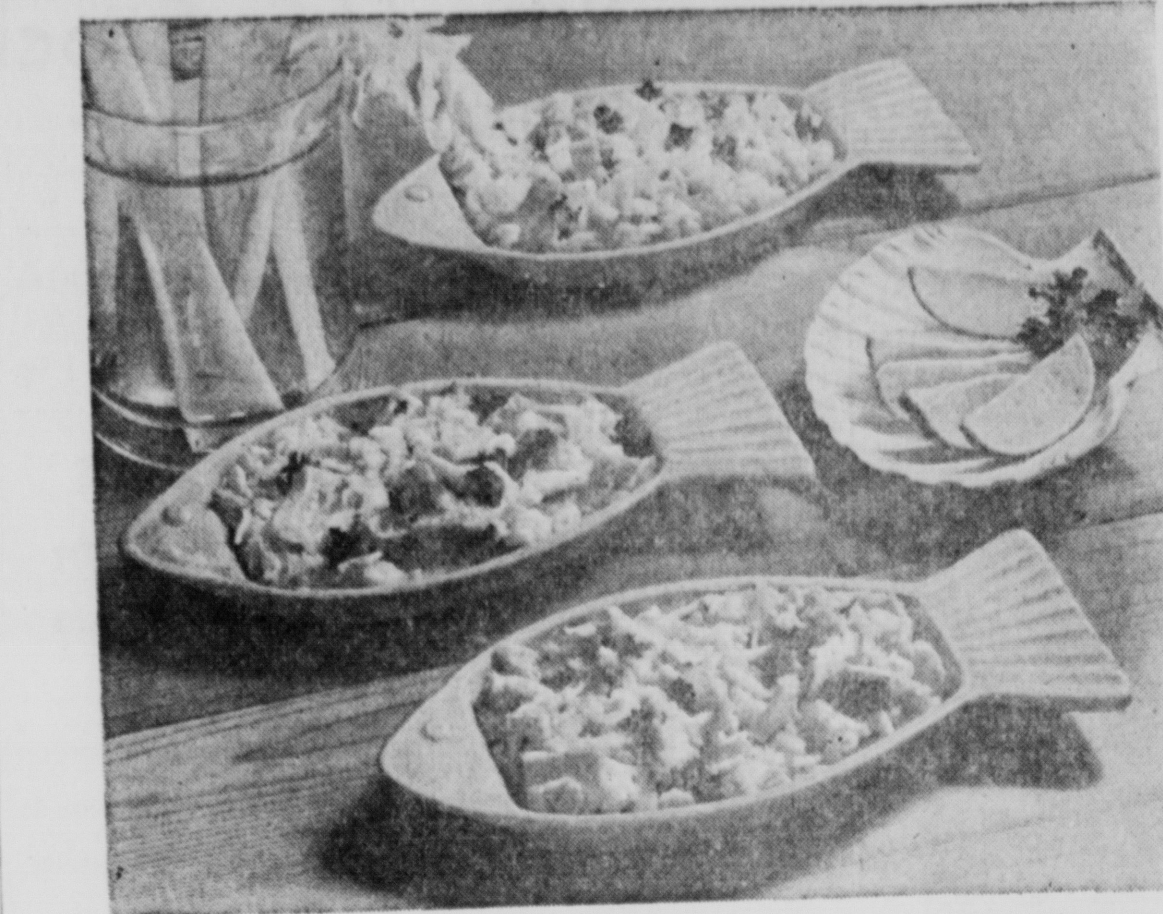

Women of the Salt Creek Town and Country Club entertained their husbands Sunday evening with a buffet dinner in the Tarlton Methodist Church basement.

Tables were decorated in keeping with spring.

Eugene Jordan, a Logan Elm High School student, was the guest speaker following the meal. His subject was "Americanism".

A brief business meeting was conducted following the dinner and program.

Those attending were: Mr. and Mrs. Robert Collins, Mr. and Mrs. Dalton DeLong, Mr. and Mrs. William Downs, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Fraunfelter, Mr. and Mrs. John Kerns, Mr. and Mrs. Max Luckhart, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Maxson, Mr. and Mrs. Ray McJunkin; Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Spangler, Mr. and Mrs. Ned Straus, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Hartsaugh, Mr. and Mrs. Dow West, Mrs. Carl Fry and Mrs. Dale Fogler.

FISH-SHAPED CASSEROLES make a delicious main dish for Lent. It's a meat loaf-type recipe made with a new kind of tuna fish that comes packed in vegetable broth.

Fast Fish Dishes for Lent

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

Did you know that canned tuna is now available in two new taste-tempting varieties?

Such is the happy case, so when you're food-shopping for Lenten meals, keep an eye out for tuna packed in corn oil and tuna packed in clear vegetable broth.

FISH VERSION

The tuna in broth is especially good. It lends itself tastefully to a baked dish that's a fish version of the meat loaf recipe.

Instead of meat the tuna is expanded with crumbs, flavored with parsley, onion and spices, then held together with eggs.

Preparation time is practically nil. Just combine the ingredients and place in the oven for 35 min.

CRAB MEAT AND FRENCH FRIES

Another fast fish dish for Lent features ever-popular crab meat in wonderful new combination with frozen French fries, just about everybody's favorite form of potatoes.

When two such treats are teamed you can be sure the dish is one that, by family demand, will find a place in your permanent repertoire of recipes.

BAKED TUNA TREAT

2 cans tuna in vegetable broth
3/4 c. soft bread crumbs
3 tbsps. finely-chopped parsley
3 tbsps. finely-chopped onion
2 slightly-beaten eggs
1/4 c. milk

1 tsp. melted margarine

Salt

Pepper

Paprika

Fresh lemon wedges

Set oven at 400 degrees F.

Combine all ingredients. Spoon into 1-qt. baking dish or 4 individual baking dishes. Bake for 35 min. Serves 4.

FRENCH FRIES WITH CRAB MEAT

2 tbsps. butter or margarine

2 tbsps. thinly-sliced green onion

2 (9-oz.) pkgs. or 1 (1-lb.) pkg. frozen French fries

1 or 2 (6-oz.) pkgs. frozen crab meat, defrosted, drained and flaked

1/2 c. half and half (milk and cream)

1 tsp. salt

1 tbsps. minced parsley

1 c. shredded Cheddar cheese

Melt butter or margarine; add onion and French fries. Saute', stirring constantly, until potatoes are hot.

Remove from heat; add crab meat, half and half milk-cream, salt, parsley and 1/2 c. of cheese. Mix carefully.

Place in 4 individual casseroles or shells. Top with remaining cheese.

Heat in oven, 400 degrees F., about 10 to 12 min.

Serves 4.

EUB Class Meets In Radcliff Home

The Young Married Couples' Class of the First EUB Church met recently in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Radcliff, Route 3.

Ruth Beadle headed the program with a review of a recent talk by John Noble.

It was announced that the April meeting would be a carry-in supper in the Service Center.

Mrs. Fred Cupp was in charge of devotions. She read a narrative entitled "A Home without a Bible."

Winners of a balloon game were Ruth Beadle, Fred Cupp and Louise Radcliff.

Refreshments were served and a social hour was held.

Evans-Ballou Engagement Is Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Evans, 316 Cedar Heights Road, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Karen Sue, to Mr. Paul Ballou, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Ballou, Route 3.

Miss Evans is a student at Circleville High School.

Mr. Ballou is a 1961 graduate of Circleville High School and is associated with his father in the theater business at the North Drive-In Theater.

The couple has not set a definite date for the wedding.

Looks in your market? Clean, slice (discarding about half the green part) and cook with potatoes. Add very thin cream sauce, lots of freshly ground pepper and you'll have a delicious and nutritious soup.

NOT COMING HOME—Coya Knutson (top), 48, Minnesota's first congresswoman whose husband's famous "Coya, come home" appeal shattered her political career during the 1958 elections, won't be coming home any more. She was granted a divorce from her husband, Andrew (lower), in Oklee, Minn. She charged him with inhuman treatment.

Sharpes Give Buffet Dinner

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Sharpe and son, Gary, of Williamsport, entertained a group of friends and relatives Sunday with a buffet dinner.

The dinner was held in honor of Miss Linda Sharpe and Mr. Eddie Ater, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Ater. Both are students at Ohio State University and are enjoying their spring vacation from studies.

Guests present were: the Aters, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Snyder, Williamsport; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Ullman, Grove City; Mr. and Mrs. Howard Pryor and Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Foreman, Circleville.

Evening guests were Mrs. Betty Ferrell and children, Pam and Cindy, Lancaster; and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Metzler, Circleville.

The Proof about Tarzan

DEAR ABBY: What do you mean Tarzan and Jane were NOT married. They most certainly were! For your information they were married on page 312 in THE RETURN OF TARZAN by Edgar Rice Burroughs. Professor Porter, Jane's father, was an ordained minister and he performed the ceremony.

LIBRARIAN
DEAR LIBRARIAN: My thanks to you (and to the hundreds of other Tarzan fans) who informed me of my error. Many other librarians have written me that, since that letter appeared in my column, there has been a run on the Tarzan books.

DEAR ABBY: The letter in your column, from the wife who worried because her husband mentioned ladies' names in his sleep, reminded me of my own experience. We had been married only a few months. My husband was a receiving clerk on the docks. It was a busy time of year and his responsibilities were very burdensome. One night he was exceptionally restless. He tossed, turned, moaned and muttered. Suddenly I heard him say, "But Ruth is coming in tomorrow and I have to be ready for her!" My heart sank. I very quietly whispered in his ear, "Ruth who, Charley?" He replied, "Ruth Alexander, with all that grain." I went to sleep chuckling.

The "Ruth Alexander" was a ship of the Pacific Steamship Company, then in service up and down the West Coast.

DEAR ABBY: I have the world's worst liar for a husband. He has been seeing another woman for a year now and, you know, you can't get away with that stuff in a small town. Everybody knows it, but he denies it when I question him. He "hides" his car in her garage and pulls down the garage door, but the crazy fool should know that people see him coming out of her garage at all hours. The woman is divorced and he isn't the only one she sees. Should I find myself a sweetheart, too? Maybe if my husband got a taste of his own medicine it would cure him.

CHEATER'S WIFE
DEAR WIFE: The kind of "medicine" you are considering has never cured anyone. Someone should collar your husband and try to make him see the light. It's a man's job. Get one of his friends to talk to him.

DEAR ABBY: Your Italian correspondent is wrong. NO ONE eats pizza with his "fingers." It is eaten with the mouth.

Top 2 Teams In Ohio Vie For AA Title

Cleveland, Hamilton
Squads in Final Tilt;
Upsetters Meet in 'A'

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — No Hollywood director could pick a better cast for Ohio's Class AA high school basketball championship game than the one which treads the St. John Arena boards tonight.

For the first time in history the No. 1 and No. 2 teams in the final Associated Press poll will settle the issue.

They are the only unbeaten teams left in the Buckeye field of 933. And they are the first pair of "clean" quintets to go for the crown since 1958 when Cleveland East Tech defeated Columbus North in the finals.

East Tech, top-rated this year and sporting a 24-0 record, goes against Hamilton Taft's second-ranked Tigers who boast a 25-0 slate. The game is slated at 8 p.m.

The upstate Scarabs, champions in 1958 and 1959, and making a record fifth - straight appearance in the four-team finals, made it Friday night with a come-from-behind 57-55 win over Lima Senior which had lost seven of 21 previous tilts.

Hamilton Taft, seeking to become the 20th Southwestern District team to take the title in 40 years, zoomed past tenacious Canton Lincoln by 70-62 in the semifinals before a packed house of almost 14,000 fans.

In the Class A finals a pair of upset-minded teams were set to go at it at 2 p.m. — and they earned the honor the hard way.

Berlin Hiland of Holmes County, spearheaded by a 23-point spurge by Andy Ahijevych—a Russian youth born in a German concentration camp — handed sixth-ranked Beverly Fort Frye a 73-59 setback.

Completing the underdog success was New Lebanon Dixie of Montgomery County with a 60-52 verdict over defending champion and top-ranked Ayersville.

Hiland's win ended a 26 game winning streak for Fort Frye, and as Ayersville's Pilots felt they concluded a 57 - game winning stretch—longest in Class A history. Al Peters, Dixie's All-Ohio standout, was the hero as he chipped in with a 29-point performance. Dan Neff, Ayersville's All-Ohio player of the year, was held to 26.

Fort Frye led Hiland through the first half, but couldn't hang on because of an ankle injury suffered by its No. 1 player, Jack Clark. The injury came in the opening minutes, but Clark stuck it out the entire distance and came up with 23 points.

The big scoring spurge of the semifinals went for naught. Bob Gunn of Lima Senior, as classy a performer as the state meet has seen in years, rolled over and around East Tech for 32 points — more than any two of the Scarabs could muster—but he fell two shy of a tie. His 32 marked the best scoring by a Class AA player since Jerry Lucas hit for 47 for Middletown in 1957.

Lima bagged five more field goals than East Tech, but the Scarabs clicked on 21 of 30 free throws while the Spartans were cashing 9 of 16, and that was the difference.

Of the eight teams in the semifinals, East Tech had the poorest shooting record with 18 of 52 from the field for a 34 per cent mark. Canton Lincoln made 23 of 65 for 35 per cent, Lima Senior 23 of 49 for 47 per cent, and Hamilton Taft topped the list with 29 of 61 for 49 per cent.

In Class A they were well matched. Fort Frye was on bottom with 20 of 50 for 40 per cent; Hiland hit 24 of 57 for 41 per cent; Ayersville 22 of 52 for 42 per cent, and Dixie led the list with 24 of 55 for 43 per cent.

Robinson Accepts Bid To Lead Reds

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Frank Robinson has come of age.

About to begin his seventh year in the major baseball leagues, the National League's Most Valuable Player of 1961 is ready to assume the responsibilities of a leader.

The man who was most responsible for putting the Cincinnati Reds into the World Series last fall, Robinson says he now realizes his obligation to his club and his teammates and is ready to assume the leader's role.

Almost overnight, it seems, Robinson, who is not yet 27, has become the Reds' standard bearer, the big man, the one who sets the patterns, the fellow the others look to. Robinson only a little over a year ago ran afoul of the law when he was found guilty of carrying a concealed weapon.

"Up to last year," he says, "I didn't feel I could take on the responsibility of leadership. I didn't feel I was qualified to say things. But now I do. The fellows have confidence in me. The young guys come to me and ask me about hitting. Even the pitchers ask me my opinion on how to pitch to certain hitters."

"I could see the change last year," he says. "The boys looked for me to get the big hit. They sort of set things up for me, expecting me to deliver. Now I feel I have more of an obligation—to the players and to the club. I feel I can't be satisfied with just a good year. It's got to be an outstanding year."

Welter King Is Tagged To Lose Crown

NEW YORK (AP)—Apparently operating on the theory that the welterweight crown is harder to hold than a banana peel dipped in oil, the oddsmakers have made champion Benny (Kid) Paret of Cuba a 17-5 underdog to lose his title again to Emile Griffith tonight.

Only two of the last seven rulers of the 147-pound set have held the championship more than a year and Paret is not one of the exceptions.

The odds, however, seem as ridiculous as the 4-1 favorite's price on Griffith for their last fight at Madison Square Garden on Sept. 30. Paret, plugging all the way, upset the sleek, harder-hitting Griffith on a split, disputed 15-round decision. Griffith had won their first fight and the title on a 13th round knockout at Miami Beach, April 1, 1960.

The third and rubber scrap is expected to draw a crowd of about 7,500 and receipts of $25,000 at the Garden. The big money—$60,000—comes from the television fee. The bout will be telecast locally and nationally by ABC-TV at 10 p.m. EST. Paret has been guaranteed $50,000. Griffith gets $10,000 plus 20 per cent of the gate.

Giants in NIT Eyed by Pros

Dayton, St. Johns
Stars Vie for Title

NEW YORK (AP) — Prominent at court-side at Madison Square Garden today were sharp-eyed professional scouts, keeping a close eye on the duel between a pair of 6-foot-10 players in the St. John's-Dayton final of the National Invitation Basketball Tournament.

With an eye ahead to next Monday's draft session of the National Basketball Association, the scouts focused attention on Leroy Ellis, of the hometown Redmen, and Bill Chmielewski of the Ohio Flyers.

Duquesne and Chicago Loyola ment for third place in the first game of the afternoon double-header.

What the pro scouts wanted to see was how Ellis, a spindly, speedy senior, handled himself against Chmielewski, a rugged, poised sophomore.

They had to file Chmielewski away for future reference, but Ellis is available now, and there is a question of how he can handle himself against the rugged types in the NBA.

The Dayton ace, brawny son of a Polish laborer, is the type of tough-under-the-boards player Ellis would face in the NBA.

Chmielewski racked up 87 points in pacing the Flyers to the finals, against Wichita, Houston and Loyola. Perhaps even more important was his rebounding, defense and feeding to his mates.

Ellis is surrounded by a talented cast, too, but his 29 points, including 13 from the foul line, were the decisive factor in a great St. John's comeback against a scrappy Duquesne team. He got the same total against Holy Cross in the quarter-finals.

Rainfall in Miami Saddens Casper

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — They planned to start the second round all over again today in the weather-plagued Doral Country Club Golf Tournament, and nobody could be sadder than Bill Casper.

The big Californian took it with characteristic good humor, but if a rainstorm hadn't washed out the second 18-hole round Friday he might have been on top at the half in the $50,000 event.

About 100 players were still on the course when the storm struck and Casper was leading with two straight 2-under-par 70s. The possibility that anyone would catch him before the day was over was at least doubtful.

He had moved ahead of Jack Nicklaus, first-round co-leader, who needed a par 72 on his second trip and now had 141.

John Goodman was the last amateur to win the U. S. Open golf championship. He beat pro Ralph Guldahl by a stroke in the 1933 tournament at North Shore Golf Club in Glen View, Ill.

sure like what I've seen of the kid (Sammy Ellis). He could make the big jump like Ken Hunt did last year."

ALL GOOD THINGS COME TO AN END—Ohio State's fabulous basketball team, headed by Mel Nowell, John Havlicek and Jerry Lucas (left to right), wind up a three-year career of successful performances with the N.C.A.A. finale in Louisville. The three led the Bucks, coached by Fred Taylor (rear), to a record of 77 victories and only five defeats prior to the playoffs in Louisville. Lucas, who doesn't plan to play pro basketball, was a three-time All-American.

Lucas Knee May Be Key To Fortunes

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—The most valuable left knee in college basketball may hold the answer to tonight's NCAA title game between top-ranked Ohio State and defending champion Cincinnati.

The knee belongs to Jerry Lucas of the Buckeyes, three-time All-America ace and player of the Year in basketball the last two seasons.

Lucas sprained it well into Ohio State's 84-68 romp over Wake Forest in Friday night's semifinals.

Big Luke was due to spend the night at his hotel with the knee packed in ice. "He suffered a mild sprain and should be able to play," team physician Dr. Robert Murphy said when he examined the 6-8 senior within an hour after the injury occurred. Further examination was scheduled today.

The mishap occurred with 6:19 left in the game, Ohio State leading 73-56 and coasting behind the brilliant play of Lucas and John Havlicek.

There was a shot at the Ohio basket. The ball caromed off and into a mass of leaping players.

As Lucas tells it: "I jumped and started to turn, somebody bumped me and I came down on my heel. My knee twisted under me."

He suffers from synovitis, an inflammation of the knees. Doctors say he got it from playing so much basketball on concrete floors as a boy.

Baylor To Help Lakers in Playoff

Buoyed by the availability of Pvt. Elgin Baylor, the Los Angeles Lakers were set to tackle Detroit's upset-minded Pistons tonight in the opening game of the National Basketball Association's Western Division final playoff.

In the Eastern Division curtain-raiser, Boston's league champion Celtics, openly more fearful of a week's layoff than their opponents, met Wilt Chamberlain and his Philadelphia Warriors in a nationally televised (NBC) afternoon game.

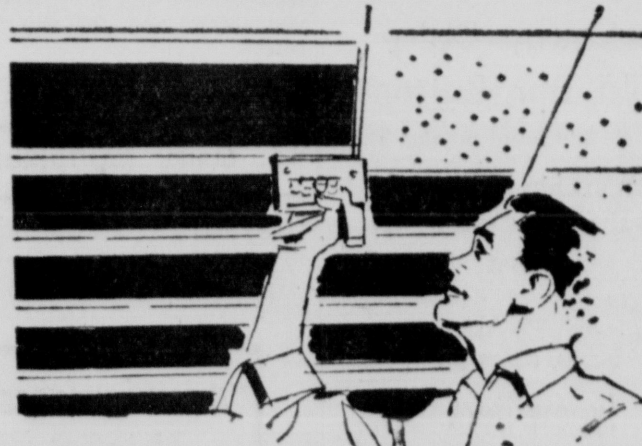

The winners of the best-of-7 divisional finals will meet for the NBA championship in another best-of-7 series.

SCO Coaches In Accord on Film Exchange

Carl Benhase, Circleville grid coach, has announced that South Central Ohio League Football Coaches have agreed to work out a film exchange plan acceptable to all schools in the loop.

Last year there was an optional agreement among the coaches to exchange game films. The system was not satisfactory.

Several of the coaches have agreed to submit plans for film exchange at the fall meeting of the coaches.

Benhase mentioned one plan, presently in use by one of the central Ohio leagues, that has been acceptable.

A TEAM may request the film of any game, except films of the game immediately prior to the meeting of the two teams, from the coach of an opponent. The teams will exchange films requested one week before their game and the film will be returned the night of the contest.

In other action at the spring meeting of the football coaches association, Dean Waddell, Wilmington football coach, moved that a new league coach be notified immediately of league football policy by the secretary of the association. The motion was passed.

The next meeting of the football coaches assn. will be August 13 at the Hotel Washington Coffee House.

REDS' OWNER — William (Bill) DeWitt, president and general manager of the Cincinnati Reds, can now wear another hat — he's owner, too. DeWitt announced he had purchased the National League club for $4,625,000.

Redleg Stock To Be Sold To DeWitt

CINCINNATI (AP) — Only formalities remain before William O. DeWitt owns the Cincinnati Reds.

In a joint statement Friday DeWitt and the Crosley Foundation, holder of 90 per cent of the stock of the baseball club, announced DeWitt had offered $4,625,000 for the club and the foundation had agreed to sell. Pending are approval at a stockholders' meeting April 5 and approval from the other nine National League teams.

DeWitt said he would be president and sole stockholder. He admitted he had partners but declined to identify them, saying only that all money involved was "local."

The 58-year-old baseball executive repeated that he would not move the Reds from Cincinnati, birthplace of professional baseball.

The Crosley Foundation was set up by the will of Powell Crosley Jr., long-time owner of the Reds, who died a year ago.

DeWitt took over as general manager of the Reds in December 1960 and became president last December.

The Detroit Lions hold the National Football League record for rushing yardage in a single season. They ran up 2,885 yards in 1936.

Top 2 Teams In Ohio Vie For AA Title

Cleveland, Hamilton
Squads in Final Tilt;
Upsetters Meet in 'A'

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — No Hollywood director could pick a better cast for Ohio's Class AA high school basketball championship game than the one which treads the St. John Arena boards tonight.

For the first time in history the No. 1 and No. 2 teams in the final Associated Press poll will settle the issue.

They are the only unbeaten teams left in the Buckeye field of 933. And they are the first pair of "clean" quintets to go for the crown since 1958 when Cleveland East Tech defeated Columbus North in the finals.

East Tech, top-rated this year and sporting a 24-0 record, goes against Hamilton Taft's second-ranked Tigers who boast a 25-0 slate. The game is slated at 8 p.m.

The upstate Scarabs, champions in 1958 and 1959, and making a record fifth - straight appearance in the four-team finals, made it Friday night with a come-from-behind 57-55 win over Lima Senior which had lost seven of 21 previous tilts.

Hamilton Taft, seeking to become the 20th Southwestern District team to take the title in 40 years, zoomed past tenacious Canton Lincoln by 70-62 in the semifinals before a packed house of almost 14,000 fans.

In the Class A finals a pair of upset-minded teams were set to go at it at 2 p.m. — and they earned the honor the hard way.

Berlin Hiland of Holmes County, spearheaded by a 23-point spurge by Andy Ahijewych—a Russian youth born in a German concentration camp — handed sixth-ranked Beverly Fort Frye a 73-59 setback.

Completing the underdog success was New Lebanon Dixie of Montgomery County with a 60-52 verdict over defending champion and top-ranked Ayersville.

Hiland's win ended a 26 game winning streak for Fort Frye, and as Ayersville's Pilots fell they concluded a 57 - game winning stretch—longest in Class A history. Al Peters, Dixie's All-Ohio standout, was the hero as he chipped in with a 29-point performance. Dan Neff, Ayersville's All-Ohio player of the year, was held to 26.

Fort Frye led Hiland through the first half, but couldn't hang on because of an ankle injury suffered by its No. 1 player, Jack Clark. The injury came in the opening minutes, but Clark stuck it out the entire distance and came up with 23 points.

The big scoring spurge of the semifinals went for naught. Bob Gunn of Lima Senior, as classy a performer as the state meet has seen in years, rolled over and around East Tech for 32 points — more than any two of the Scarabs could muster—but he fell two shy of a tie. His 32 marked the best scoring by a Class AA player since Jerry Lucas hit for 47 for Middletown in 1957.

Lima bagged five more field goals than East Tech, but the Scarabs clicked on 21 of 30 free throws while the Spartans were cashing 9 of 16, and that was the difference.

Of the eight teams in the semifinals, East Tech had the poorest shooting record with 18 of 52 from the field for a 34 per cent mark. Canton Lincoln made 23 of 65 for 35 per cent, Lima Senior 23 of 49 for 47 per cent, and Hamilton Taft topped the list with 29 of 61 for 49 per cent.

In Class A they were well matched. Fort Frye was on bottom with 20 of 50 for 40 per cent; Hiland hit 24 of 57 for 41 per cent; Ayersville 22 of 52 for 42 per cent, and Dixie led the list with 24 of 55 for 43 per cent.

New Colt 45s Have Mixture Of Experience, Young Talent

By WALTER L. JOHNS
Central Press Sports Editor
APACHE JUNCTION, Ariz. — A few years ago this little town, which is the beginning of the Apache Trail that winds over Superstition Mountain, had a couple of little stores, a few residents and no ball park.

A little more than year ago the city of Houston was voted a franchise in the National League and a three-year deal was made to train here. The ball park was built in a year, a $150,000 structure with a fine infield and concrete-like outfield. Apache Junction now has 6,000 residents, a fine motel which houses the Houston Colt 45s, the ball park and a team.

There's no question about the ball park, although it's right in the desert over winding dusty roads. There is some question about the Colts' being a major league team, however.

It's a start, anyhow, although the Colts didn't get the best of it. At home in Houston a new stadium, Colt Stadium, has been built to house the club for 1962. However, a beautiful domed stadium is in the making and it will be ready for the 1963 season. Everyone here hopes that the ball club will be ready by that time, too.

To start this first season, the Houston money boys shelled out $1,850,000 for 23 players in the National League pool. They hired Paul Richards to be general manager and Harry Craft, former Kansas City pilot, as the bench boss.

They signed some kids, brought some oldtimers back and are trying to get ready for the opening game. Craft, one of the nicer guys in baseball, pulls no punches when he talks about his club. We sat with him in the dugout at Geronimo Park here as he went over the team.

"We have an awful lot of problems," he said. "We're just rocking along all the boys here (there were 65 in uniform) are new to us. They come from different teams and different leagues. But we think it's good because they all feel that they have a chance to play here."

"Most of the players we got in the pool or dealt for had good scouting reports. Right now we're just teetering on the fence. Surprisingly, the spirit has been exceptional. I'd say that among our many problems the pitching and the outfield are the key ones."

"We have a few players like Norm Larker, Hal Smith, Joe Amalfitano and Don Buddin who've had sound major league experience. At the moment we're trying to find a starting rotation for our pitchers."

Three of the pitchers, Dick Drott, Don Altman and Joe Clement, are in the service. Drott, formerly with the Cubs, figured as one of Harry's first-line men.

A rundown on the Colt 45s would be like this:

Pitching—Jim Golden, from the Dodgers; Dick Farrell, from the Phils and Dodgers; Ken Johnson, from Kansas City; Bobby Shantz, from the Pirates; Bob Bruce, ex-Tiger, and Bobby Tiefenauer, from the Cards, probably will make up the main slab corps. Most impressive has been Golden, although Farrell and Shantz are throwing well. Drott is getting balder by the day.

Best chance for a raw rookie is held by a 21-year-old who was signed off the University of Syracuse last year. He is Dave Guisti (Joosty), who was 7-7 at Jacksonville and 2-0 with Houston last year.

The best 1961 records on the pitching staff are held by Dean Stone, who's been around, and Tiefenauer, and Stone's 12 wins last year with Charleston in the International League are tops on the Colt team.

An established catcher, Hal Smith, from the Pirates, and a recent acquisition, aging Clint Courtney, give the club fair receiving. Two rookies, Jim Campbell from Houston, and Merritt Ranew, who hit .347 at Louisville, are others competing.

In the infield Larker, from the Dodgers, will be at first with Dick Gernert and a rookie, Pidge Browne, who's 32 and has been in the minors for 13 years, competing.

Amalfitano, from the Giants, is at second although Bob Lillis, from the Dodgers and Cards, can play anywhere. Wayne Connolly, with Houston the last two years, is another keystone candidate.

Don Buddin is the shortstop and Bob Aspromonte, brother of Ken of the Indians, and Von McDaniel, former pitcher with the Cards and a fine hitter, will fight it out for third.

The outfield is a tossup with Jim Pendleton, 38-year-old ex-Brave; Dave Philley, Roman Mejias, Don Taussig, Johnny Weekly and Al Spangler competing. Also on hand is Al Heist, from the Cubs, and to come in the future, Ed Olivares, who had a fine year with Charleston last season but broke his ankle in a squad game here. Mejias, formerly with the Pirates, and Weekly, who was with Victoria, may be the power that is for each hit 21 homers in the minors last year.

Craft plans on having Lumin Harris coach at third, Jimmy Adair or Bobby Bragan at first and Cot Deal and Jim Busby in the bullpen.

The Colts are getting $24,000 for training here.

Orville Schedules 'Bobby Knight Day'

ORRVILLE, Ohio (AP)—Bobby Knight, one of five senior members on the No. 1 ranked Ohio State University cage squad, will come home to Orrville next month for a rousing welcome.

Orville's mayor has proclaimed April 28 "Bobby Knight Day" with some big plans in the making to honor a favorite son of the town's 5,000 residents.

Knight's four senior teammates—Jerry Lucas, John Havlicek, Mel Nowell and Gary Gearhart—will be part of the Celebration. The five OSU seniors will play an exhibition game April 27 at Orrville High School's gym.

New Colt 45s Have Mixture Of Experience, Young Talent

By WALTER L. JOHNS
 Central Press Sports Editor
 APACHE JUNCTION, Ariz. — A few years ago this little town, which is the beginning of the Apache Trail that winds over Superstition Mountain, had a couple of little stores, a few residents and no ball park.

A little more than year ago the city of Houston was voted a franchise in the National League and a three-year deal was made to train here.

The ball park was built in a year, a $150,000 structure with a fine infield and concrete-like outfield. Apache Junction now has 6,000 residents, a fine motel which houses the Houston Colt .45s, the ball park and a team.

There's no question about the ball park, although it's right in the desert over winding dusty roads. There is some question about the Colts' being a major league team, however.

It's a start, anyhow, although the Colts didn't get the best of it. At home in Houston a new stadium.

 NEW YORK (AP) — Sunday will be a good day in which to catch up with some excellent programs missed the first time they were shown.

Opera-lovers may see NBC's production of "Cavalleria Rusticana" (3:30-4:40 p.m. ES). Unfortunately, this is in conflict with a CBS repeat of its White House tour with Mrs. John F. Kennedy (4-5). "The Real West," with the late Gary Cooper narrating, will be re-shown Sunday evening on NBC (9-10).

On Sunday evening there is an NBC "White Paper," about the defense effort and its effect on American life (10-11).

Leonard Bernstein and the New York Philharmonic Orchestra will salute composer Igor Stravinsky on his 80th birthday with a young people's concert Monday night (7:30-8:30).

Tuesday night's ABC "Close-up" (10-11) is a report on Cambodia.

Alice Faye will be Perry Como's guest star Wednesday (NBC, 9-10).

A documentary — of a public highway — will be shown on NBC Thursday evening, an unusual program following U.S. Route 1 from Maine to Florida (7:30-8:30). Jack Paar will wind up his long-running late evening program (11:15-1 a.m.).

ium, Colt Stadium, has been built to house the club for 1962. However, a beautiful domed stadium is in the making and it will be ready for the 1963 season. Everyone here hopes that the ball club will be ready by that time, too.

To start this first season, the Houston money boys shelled out $1,850,000 for 23 players in the National League pool. They hired Paul Richards to be general manager and Harry Craft, former Kansas City pilot, as the bench boss.

They signed some kids, brought some oldtimers back and are trying to get ready for the opening game.

Craft, one of the nicer guys in baseball, pulls no punches when he talks about his club. We sat with him in the dugout at Geronimo Park here as he went over the team:

"We have an awful lot of problems," he said. "We're just rocking along All the boys here (there were 65 in uniform) are new to us. They come from different teams and different leagues. But we think it's good because they all feel that they have a chance to play here."

"Most of the players we got in the pool or dealt for had good scouting reports. Right now we're just teetering on the fence. Surprisingly, the spirit has been exceptional. I'd say that among our many problems the pitching and the outfield are the key ones."

"We have a few players like Norm Larker, Hal Smith, Joe Amalfitano and Don Buddin who've had sound major league experience. At the moment we're trying to find a starting rotation for our pitchers."

Three of the pitchers, Dick Drott, Don Altman and Joe Clement, are in the service. Drott, formerly with the Cubs, figured as one of Harry's first-line men.

A rundown on the Colt .45s would be like this:

Pitching — Jim Golden, from the Dodgers; Dick Farrell, from the Phils and Dodgers; Ken Johnson, from Kansas City; Bobby Shantz, from the Pirates; Bob Bruce, ex-Tiger, and Bobby Tiefenauer, from the Cards, probably will make up the main slab corps. Most impressive has been Golden, although Farrell and Shantz are throwing well. Santz is getting balder by the day.

Best chance for a raw rookie is held by a 21-year-old who was signed off the University of Syracuse last year. He is Dave Guisti (Joosty), who was 7-7 at Jacksonville and 2-0 with Houston last year.

The best 1961 records on the pitching staff are held by Dean Stone, who's been a round, and Tiefenauer, and Stone's 12 wins last year with Charleston in the International League are tops on the Colt team.

An established catcher, Hal Smith, from the Pirates, and a recent acquisition, aging Clint Courtney, give the club fair receiving. Two rookies, Jim Campbell from Houston, and Merritt Ranew, who hit .347 at Louisville, are others competing.

In the infield Larker, from the Dodgers, will be at first with Dick Gernert and a rookie, Pidge Browne, who's 32 and has been in the minors for 13 years, competing.

Amalfitano, from the Giants, is at second although Bob Lillis, from the Dodgers and Cards, can play anywhere. Wayne Connally, with Houston the last two years, is another keystone candidate.

Don Buddin is the shortstop and Bob Aspromonte, brother of Ken of the Indians, and Von McDaniel, former pitcher with the Cards and a fine hitter, will fight it out for third.

The outfield is a tossup with Jim Pendleton, 38-year-old ex-Brave; Dave Philley, Roman Mejias, Don Taussig, Johnny Weekly and Al Spangler competing. Also on hand is Al Heist, from the Cubs, and to come in the future, Ed Olivares, who had a fine year with Charleston last season but broke his ankle in a squad game here. Mejias, formerly with the Pirates, and Weekly, who was with Victoria, may be the power that is for each hit 21 homers in the minors last year.

Craft plans on having Lumin Harris coach at third, Jimmy Adair or Bobby Bragan at first and Cot Deal and Jim Busby in the bullpen.

The Colts are getting $24,000 for training here.

Parking . . .
that buildings cannot be moved to a shopping center, but it is always possible for a tenant to move his business.

The Parking Lot Corporation currently has hopes of expanding its present lot to provide protection and service to downtown firms and property owners. A great deal of money will be needed if the plan is to succeed, the letter explained.

On the assumption that "it is later than you think", the corporation expressed the opinion that plans for additional facilities should be drawn as quickly as possible. Three years of planning and soliciting were required to obtain the present lot.

The letter urged business property owners to take a prime interest in the parking situation and how future expansion may be accomplished.

AN OPEN meeting has been scheduled Tuesday in the basement of the BPO Elks Lodge for further discussion of the matter. Property owners concerned are urged to be present to help establish future planning. A buffet lunch will be served following the meeting.

Meter collections of the parking lot now in operation showed receipts of $2,062.50 in 1959, its first year of operation, $2,586.35 in 1960 and $2,642.30 in 1961, indicating successful utilization by motorists for all three years.

Officers of the Parking Lot Corporation are Paul Brown, president; W. Joe Burns, vice president; Charles Schieber, secretary; and Harry Clifton, treasurer.

In addition to the officers, board members are Paul Brown, Ben Gordon, Phil Smith, George Fuhrman and Charles Boggs.

Medic Says Lucas Can Play Tonight

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Dr. Robert Murphy, Ohio State basketball team physician, said this morning that Jerry Lucas, whose knee was injured in Friday night's 84-68 win over Wake Forest, "has some tender areas which responded well to treatment."

"The knee is a little sore, but I don't question he'll play tonight," Dr. Murphy said. OSU meets the University of Cincinnati in the NCAA championship game.

Little People Bear Petitions Pleading: 'Save Our Crows!'

CLEVELAND (AP)—"Save our crows," read the desperate petitions the little people have been bringing in to Mrs. Elberta Fleming's office in suburban Bay Village.

The crows are Susie and Bob, and they meet the school buses each morning. They follow the children to school. Susie goes to the elementary school, where she sits on a window sill and looks in. Sometimes Susie is bad. She does things like taking mittens from children and dropping them on the roof of the school.

Bob goes to the junior high school and barges right into the classrooms. "Some of the teachers love him, and some just hate him," said Mrs. Fleming.

Bob has the bad habit of flying across the room without regard to the fact that teacher may be trying to get an important point over to her pupils.

Patrolman Scott C. Wurster is trying to catch Susie and Bob. So far, the crows have been smarter than Patrolman Wurster — or Mrs. Fleming. They use butterfly nets. When the crows see the nets, they fly away.

Patrolman Wurster is getting tired of carting the large nets around.

"I never realized how much the crows meant to the children until all these petitions started coming in," said Mrs. Fleming, director of the Lake Erie Junior Museum. "Little boys come over after school to ask if it's true that the crows are in trouble."

The crows have no connection with the museum, except that Bob stayed there for a few weeks when a neighbor brought him in.

Premeasurement Service Offered

J. Austin Dowden, office manager of the Pickaway Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation County Committee, announced today that acreage premeasurement service is now being offered to participants in the 1962 Feed Grain Program.

Dowden said the service will be performed at a charge of $5 per farm or 5 cents per acre which ever is larger. This service includes the measuring of the diverted acres and the acreage to be planted to corn.

Authorities feared the battle might trigger a general uprising throughout Algeria's major cities by secret army men determined to risk all in a bid to attract world attention to their cause.

Officials don't believe such a revolt could succeed if the army remained loyal to De Gaulle.

The settlers accuse the French government of selling Algeria out to the Moslem nationalists. The right-wing secret army has called for all-out resistance. It has more than 30,000 modern arms and can count on the complicity of most of Algeria's one-million Europeans.

As night shrouded the city, tanks and armored cars rumbled through the streets. Armored columns encircled Bab-el-Oued where the streets were littered with broken glass and debris of the fighting.

Steel-helmeted troops cautiously searched houses where during the day men with armbands marked with secret army insignia fired at French troops.

Shortly before midnight machine gun fire rattled in the heart of the city. An armored convoy of French gendarmes was attacked by Europeans firing from the balconies of their elegant apartments.

23 Members Attend Meet Of MYF Group

Twenty-three members answered roll call when the Mt. Pleasant Methodist Youth Fellowship met this week in the church.

Darlene Hopkins, president, opened the regular meeting with a call to worship and led the group in prayer. Thelma Minor, faith secretary, was in charge of devotions. The group sang "Take Time to be Holy."

Prayer was the subject for study. Paula Hopkins, Lucy Hopkins, Lois Atwood and Thelma Minor gave talks and readings on prayer. A question and answer period followed. The program was closed with a hymn and the MYF benediction.

Contributions were made to the Crippled Children's Society and the Dr. Sidwell fund.

A hike to obtain shade trees to plant in the church yard was planned for the first pleasant Sunday afternoon in April.

Thelma and Susan Minor served refreshments.

Burial Site Sought for Honored Pig

ANNA, Ill. (AP)—A permanent resting place is being sought for King Neptune, a 700-pound pig that went from one rally to another during World War II promoting war bond sales.

The pig was buried in 1950 in a plot near Anna, known as King Neptune Park. An interstate highway was built across the site in 1959 and the remains were moved to a temporary grave.

A permanent site is being sought by Don Lingle of Anna, who started the patriotic pig on a tour that lasted four years and resulted in $19 million in bond sales. The pig was sold time after time to buyers who always gave him back.

Neptune lived off a retirement pension from a feed company. His account of nearly $100 still is drawing interest in an Anna bank because lawyers haven't found a way to settle a pig's estate.

Parking . . .

that buildings cannot be moved to a shopping center, but it is always possible for a tenant to move his business.
The Parking Lot Corporation currently has hopes of expanding its present lot to provide protection and service to downtown firms and property owners. A great deal of money will be needed if the plan is to succeed, the letter explained.
On the assumption that "it is later than you think", the corporation expressed the opinion that plans for additional facilities should be drawn as quickly as possible. Three years of planning and soliciting were required to obtain the present lot.
The letter urged business property owners to take a prime interest in the parking situation and how future expansion may be accomplished.

Two More Vacant Store Rooms

AN OPEN meeting has been scheduled Tuesday in the basement of the BPO Elks Lodge for further discussion of the matter. Property owners concerned are urged to be present to help establish future planning. A buffet lunch will be served following the meeting.
Meter collections of the parking lot now in operation showed receipts of $2,062.50 in 1959, its first year of operation, $2,586.35 in 1960 and $2,642.30 in 1961, indicating successful utilization by motorists for all three years.
Officers of the Parking Lot Corporation are Paul Johnson, president; W. Joe Burns, vice president; Charles Schieber, secretary; and Harry Clifton, treasurer.
In addition to the officers, board members are Paul Brown, Ben Gordon, Phil Smith, George Fuhrman and Charles Boggs.

Medic Says Lucas Can Play Tonight
LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Dr. Robert Murphy, Ohio State basketball team physician, said here this morning that Jerry Lucas, whose knee was injured in Friday night's 84-68 win over Wake Forest, "has some tender areas which responded well to treatment."
"The knee is a little sore, but I don't question he'll play tonight," Dr. Murphy said. OSU meets the University of Cincinnati in the NCAA championship game.

Little People Bear Petitions Pleading: 'Save Our Crows!'

CLEVELAND (AP)—"Save our crows," read the desperate petitions the little people have been bringing in to Mrs. Elberta Fleming's office in suburban Bay Village.
The crows are Susie and Bob, and they meet the school buses each morning. They follow the children to school. Susie goes to the elementary school, where she sits on a window sill and looks in. Sometimes Susie is bad. She does things like taking mittens from children and dropping them on the roof of the school.
Bob goes to the junior high school and barges right into the classrooms. "Some of the teachers love him, and some just hate him," said Mrs. Fleming.
Bob has the bad habit of flying across the room without regard to the fact that teacher may be trying to get an important point over to her pupils.
Patrolman Scott C. Wurster is trying to catch Susie and Bob. So far, the crows have been smarter than Patrolman Wurster — or Mrs. Fleming. They use butterfly nets. When the crows see the nets, they fly away.
Patrolman Wurster is getting tired of carting the large nets around.
"I never realized how much the crows meant to the children until all these petitions started coming in," said Mrs. Fleming, director of the Lake Erie Junior Museum. "Little boys come over after school to ask if it's true that the crows are in trouble."
The crows have no connection with the museum, except that Bob stayed there for a few weeks when a neighbor brought him in.

Mainly About People

Mr. and Mrs. C. Allen Conley are the parents of a 7-pound 10-ounce daughter, born yesterday at the Byer Memorial Hospital, Ypsilanti Mich. Little Miss Conley is the sixth grandchild of Mr. and Mrs. Paul A. Johnson, 584 Woodland Dr.
Mrs. Carl Johnston, Laurelville, has been dismissed from Chillicothe Hospital.

Premeasurement Service Offered

J. Austin Dowden, office manager of the Pickaway Agriculture Stabilization and conservation County Committee, announced today that acreage premeasurement service is now being offered to participants in the 1962 Feed Grain Program.
Dowden said the service will be performed at a charge of $5 per farm or 5 cents per acre which ever is larger. This service includes the measuring of the diverted acres and the acreage to be planted to corn.

DeGaulle Says

Secret Army Organization positions.
Authorities feared the battle might trigger a general uprising throughout Algeria's major cities by secret army men determined to risk all in a bid to attract world attention to their cause.
Officials don't believe such a revolt could succeed if the army remained loyal to De Gaulle.
The settlers accuse the French government of selling Algeria out to the Moslem nationalists. The right-wing secret army has called for all-out resistance. It has more than 30,000 modern arms and can count on the complicity of most of Algeria's one - million Europeans.
As night shrouded the city, tanks and armored cars rumbled through the streets.
Armored columns encircled Bab-el-Oued where the streets were littered with broken glass and debris of the fighting.
Steel-helmeted troops cautiously searched houses where during the day men with armbands marked with secret army insignia fired at French troops.
Shortly before midnight machine gun fire rattled in the heart of the city. An armored convoy of French gendarmes was attacked by Europeans firing from the balconies of their elegant apartments.

23 Members Attend Meet Of MYF Group

Twenty-three members answered roll call when the Mt. Pleasant Methodist Youth Fellowship met this week in the church.
Darlene Hopkins, president, opened the regular meeting with a call to worship and led the group in prayer. Thelma Minor, faith secretary, was in charge of devotions. The group sang "Take Time to Be Holy."
Prayer was the subject for study. Paula Hopkins, Lucy Hopkins, Lois Atwood and Thelma Minor gave talks and readings on prayer. A question and answer period followed. The program was closed with a hymn and the MYF benediction.
Contributions were made to the Crippled Children's Society and the Dr. Sidwell fund.
A hike to obtain shade trees to plant in the church yard was planned for the first pleasant Sunday afternoon in April.
Thelma and Susan Minor served refreshments.

Teen Dance Set Tomorrow

The third Teen-Age Dance, sponsored by the local Fraternal Order of Police and FOP Associates, will be held tomorrow from 2-5 p. m. at the Circle-D Recreation Center.
Success of the first two dances led the police units to continue the dance series. Attendance two weeks ago exceeded 200, according to local officials.
Something new has been added to the regular program of rock n' roll and twisting. A twist contest will be held and prizes will be awarded. A Columbus dance instructor will judge the competition.
Special guests at the dances are residents of the Pickaway County Children's Home. Parents are also encouraged to attend, Sgt. Leroy Hawks said today.

FULL-LENGTH CARTOON FEATURE AT GRAND — Now showing at the Grand Theater is Walt Disney's full-length color cartoon production of "Pinocchio." The movie is considered to be a Walt Disney Classic and promises adventure for all ages when the puppet, "Pinocchio", comes to life. It is filmed in Technicolor.

MYF Group To Sponsor 'Question 7'

A realistic account of the modern stance of Christianity behind the Iron Curtain is told in the motion picture "Question 7" which will open for a five-day engagement at the Grand Theater on April 1.
The film will be sponsored by the Methodist Youth Fellowship of the First Methodist Church. Advance tickets may be purchased from any member of the group.
Voted "the best picture of 1961" by the Board of Review of Motion Pictures, it has been recommended by several leading educational magazine and endorsed by Protestant, Catholic and Jewish religious leaders.
This drama of contemporary living conditions in East Germany, filmed in West Germany, gets its title from the key question, number seven, that all children in Communist operated schools must answer "correctly" if they want advanced education: "What influenced you the most?"
Praise for the Communist Party guarantees further education.
